New York Republicans Open Guns On Gov. Al Smith

ATTEMPT TO CONNECT HIM IN SCANDAL

Seek to Place Responsibility of Sewer Graft At Doors of Nominee
DIG INTO HISTORY
Campaign Pamphlet Sent Out By State Committee Showing Smith's Laxity

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
(N. Y. Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The republican organization in New York state today launched a campaign to place responsibility for the $16,000,000 Queens sewer scandal at the door of Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Following the conviction yesterday in Long Island City of Maurice E. Connelly, resigned borough president of Queens, and Frederick E. Seely, former chief of the Queens sewer bureau, republican speakers dug into the seven years' history of alleged corruption and fraud of Queens borough sewer extension for campaign material in Governor Smith's greatest stronghold, metropolitan New York.

A campaign pamphlet circulated during the last eight years place the blame for the sewer scandal on Governor Smith's laxity. It declared that although Governor Smith's attention was directed to the irregularities of the Queens contracts by a special investigating committee of the state assembly as early as 1921, the inquiry which led to the indictment of Connelly and Seely, did not begin until December, 1927.

Charges that Queens' officials paid three and four times as much for sewer pipe as other cities, were the hub of the public protest which forced the investigation by a special state commission.

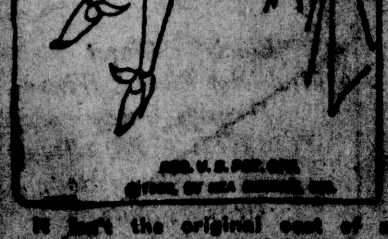

Estimates of this "cut" between contractors and borough officials during the last eight years place the total roughly at $16,000,000. John M. Phillips, lock-joint pipe dealer of Queens and a power in the Queens borough city hall, was indicted with Connelly and Seely last June. All three were named for conspiracy to defraud the city of New York. Phillips died suddenly 10 days later at Atlantic City. Connelly was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary and fined $500. He immediately filed notice of appeal. Seely's sentence was deferred until Saturday.

William L. O'Dell, a competing sewer contractor, whose grand jury testimony was the foundation of the prosecution case against the so-called "Connolly ring" was found dead in a Queens conveyance three weeks before the trial began, September 24. Four days after the trial got under way a grand jury which investigated O'Dell's death returned a verdict of "murder by a person or persons whose names are to us unknown."

GASOLINE TANK OF AMUNDSEN PLANE FOUND

Norwegian Motor Boat Left Finds Mute Evidence of Death of Explorer

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The Norwegian motor boat left arrived this morning at Valdersund and reported she had picked up the gasoline tank of the Latham seaplane in which Roald Amundsen and five others started on a flight to the Arctic in June.

The tank contained 30 litres of gasoline, the commander of the motor boat reported.

The motor boat was positive that the tank was that of the French seaplane as inscribed on one side of the tank were the words: "Essence competence, 600 litres, Hydro-avion, Latham."

The tank was found at 64 degrees and 53 minutes northern and 5 degrees 50 minutes eastern longitude.

Captain H. Risler Larsen, Norwegian explorer who spent many weeks in the Arctic this year searching for the Italia party, said the find proved without a doubt that the Latham seaplane had been forced to land at sea.

Amundsen with five companions left Tromsø, Norway, June 13, bound either for Bear Island or Kings Bay.

So far as is known their plane never was seen after late in the evening of June 18. There have been many reports of finding traces of the craft but all were unconfirmed until a few weeks ago part of the pontoons were found floating in Arctic waters.

With Amundsen when he left Tromsø were Lieut. Lieut. Dietrichsen, one of his Arctic companions; Commandant Rene Guilzard, a French naval ace who was assigned by the French government to fly the Latham to the Italia rescue; Lieut. De Cuverville, French navigator; radio man Claudebe and Mechanic Brassy.

POLITICS CONFRONT EPISCOPAL BISHOPS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(UP)—A resolution tending to keep the Episcopal church from participation in political matters was opposed in the house of bishops meeting of the Episcopal convention today and later plenary held in a committee.

Bishop Gaylor, of Tennessee, author of the resolution, asked that the church reaffirm the principle of separation of church and state and refrain from active participation in politics or partisan legislation. Bishop Brewster, of Maine, opposed, saying this would hamper the church "when great moral legislation such as the child labor law was up before the country."

OFFICERS ELECTED BY EASTERN STAR

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Business sessions and theater parties were the program features for delegates attending the grand chapter convention, order of the Eastern Star, here today.

Newly elected officers, who will head the grand chapter for the next year were announced as follows: Mrs. Pauline Ada Haase, Lodi, grand matron; Bert Richard Holloway, Van Nuys, grand patron; Myra Clara Moyse, Los Angeles, associate grand matron; Susan Miller Willatts, San Francisco, grand secretary; Anna Lancaster McKinney, Marysville, grand treasurer; Willie Reddy, Orem, Utah, conductress; Elsie McGowan, Los Angeles, associate grand conductress; Walter Wadsworth Bradley, Berkeley, associate grand patron.

A VERSATILE GAME WARDEN

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 18.—(UP)—A game warden disguised as a clam digger brought discomfiture to ten violators of state fish and game laws here today.

The warden, Jules Vissiere of Watsonville, by his ruse caught five men and five women with almost 300 undersized clams in their possession.

Fred W. Yelman and Joe L. Roach, both of Oakland, were fined $200 each by Judge Donald Younger for the offense.

HOOVER PLANS TO REPLY TO SMITH CHARGE

G. O. P. Nominee Expected To Refute Accusation Economy Is "Myth"

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(UP)—In his New York address Monday night, Herbert Hoover is expected to reply to the charge of his Democratic opponent, Gov. Alfred E. Smith, that Republican economy in the Coolidge administration is a "myth."

This had become today, suddenly, the outstanding issue of the campaign. The Democratic presidential candidate, in his Sedalia, Mo., speech, stirred up a veritable hornet's nest. Republican leaders at once jumped into the controversy.

A few hours after Smith's word went before the country over the radio, Chairman Work of the Republican National committee gave out a statement taking issue with him, denying his charge, and characterizing the Democratic candidate, sarcastically, "by his own admission the greatest financial expert New York state has ever had."

Then Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who usually lets political controversies rage about him unnoticed, issued an eight-page statement in which he went into detail to refute Smith's charges. Mellon took the attack upon him personally, Smith, he said, "understood to challenge my good faith and to accuse me of presenting a false picture to the nation."

Hoover is expected to bring the controversy to its climax in his New York speech by a careful analysis of the administration's financial record, but, as usual, without mentioning the Democratic presidential candidate by name. The implication will be sufficient in Smith's own state. Smith

DOCTOR HELD FOR MURDER OF TRAMP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Dr. Frank L. Bureleigh, 62, crippled, Burbank physician, was held in the county jail here today on suspicion of murder pending an inquest in the fatal shooting of Jack Stachel, 43-year-old tramp, doctor of Detroit.

Dr. Bureleigh called police to his office immediately after firing two shots into Stachel's body and said the janitor, crazed by drink, had threatened him with a mallet.

Undertaker Sues Film Company for Funeral Of Girl

FRESNO, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Earl Blair, a local undertaker, has brought suit against the Fox Film company for $750 to cover the cost of the funeral of Ethel Drayer, Fresno girl, who lost her life during the filming of a scene in June of last year near Lamar Siding. Blair claimed the Fox company agreed to pay the bill but later refused.

Miss Drayer, known on the screen as Ethel Hall, was shooting the rapids in the Merced river with Wallace MacDonald, when the canoe was purposely overturned by the actor. Miss Drayer was swept across the stream by the swift current and dashed to death on the rocks before she could be rescued.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Bert J. Hassell and Parker Cramer, whose attempted flight to Sweden from Rockford, Ill., ended in defeat, arrived here today, en route back to Rockford for a homecoming celebration.

Murderer Of Parker Girl Not Nervous

Taken to Death Cell Late Wednesday Night; Mother Is Broken Hearted

By GERALD P. OVERTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN QUENTIN STATE PRISON, Calif., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Alone with his conscience in the old death cell of San Quentin prison, William Edward Hickman today watched with outward calm the passing of the few hours of life left to him.

Shortly after 10 a. m. tomorrow Hickman will be led from the cell over the last short path of San Quentin's condemned and will mount the scaffold to forfeit his life in atonement for the murder of Marion Parker.

Hickman's final farewells were said, and the only legal means that offered a remote possibility of delaying the hanging had been abandoned. There remained for him but a little more time to spend reading or writing at a small desk in the corner of the "condemned cage" and one more night of sleep on a narrow cot in the opposite corner.

Outside the cell prison guards keeping the death watch marched up and down the corridor.

Just as the last mournful notes of taps sounded out over the walls of San Quentin state prison last night, Hickman started on his march to the death house.

Fred Hogsboom and Charles Alston, the two veteran guards who were assigned to the death watch, said that Hickman spent an untroubled night in the condemned cage.

Almost immediately after entering the large wooden cage, the youth dropped off into sound slumber on a little cot in the corner of the cell.

He awoke until 3:45 a. m., when he awakened and arose to write two letters.

Completing his writing at 4 a. m., he again returned to his cot and slept until 6 a. m.

Then he called for breakfast. The meal consisted of a cup of coffee, a piece of toast and two eggs.

Hickman also requested the warden today to have a bouquet of flowers from the large prison garden sent to his cell. This request also was complied with.

Warden Holahan kept secret the names of the two persons to whom Hickman wrote during the night. Hickman's body will be embalmed at the prison after his hanging tomorrow and he will be buried in a cemetery in San Rafael, according to tentative arrangements made by his father, Thomas Hickman, who called on him yesterday.

WHISKER GROWING CONTEST

REDLANDS, Calif., Oct. 18.—(United Press)—Razors and shaving soaps were thrown into the discard today as men students at the University of Redlands began messaging their jowls in preparation for the university's whisker-growing prize contest.

The contest, to determine the "most becoming" beard, is expected to furnish a variety of van dykes, goatees and beards that hark back to the days of mustache cups.

Length, breadth or density will not be considered in picking the winner. Trimming, pruning, clipping and the application of tonics, fertilizers, moth balls or electric vibrators are taboo.

DIRIGIBLE TRANSPORTATION BETWEEN U. S. AND EUROPE ON 54 HOUR SCHEDULE, PLAN

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Discussions concerning formation of a dirigible transportation corporation, to operate on a 54-hour schedule between Europe and the United States, probably will get underway today between Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, and interested financiers.

Dr. Eckener in New York yesterday revealed that he hoped to formulate a corporation, with a capital of $14,000,000, for the trans Atlantic service before the Graf Zeppelin returns to its home port at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Later Captain E. A. Lehmann, first officer of the Graf Zeppelin, said the conference would be held here today. He would not indicate identity of the Americans interested in the proposed corporation.

Eckener and officers of the Graf Zeppelin were expected here this morning from New York to oversee a few of the plans for repairing the torn fin of the great air liner and then proceed to Philadelphia where a celebration has been arranged in their honor.

While the Graf Zeppelin continues to be of great interest to thousands of visitors from New York and nearby points. Perhaps 20,000 persons visited the ship yesterday.

Last night radio listeners were given a graphic description of the Zeppelin's flight by Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, a passenger. He spoke over WEAF.

REVOKE LICENSE OF GLAND SPECIALIST

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The state board of medical examiners last night decided unanimously that Dr. Clayton Wheeler, San Francisco and Los Angeles "gland specialist," had violated a state law and so revoked his license.

In his closing arguments, David Livingston, defense attorney, charged the medical board had seized upon Dr. Wheeler's advertisements as a means of depriving him of his right to practice.

Livingston announced he would test the validity of the ruling in the superior courts and meanwhile would seek a stay of execution.

The decision of the board was based on the contention that Dr. Wheeler's advertisements violated the state law prohibiting advertising of treatment for sexual diseases.

PATIENT HELD FOR OIL FRAUD ESCAPES

DENVER, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Police throughout Colorado and Wyoming today were notified to arrest Hubert M. Michels, 34, of Omaha, wanted in Norfolk, Neb., on a $200,000 oil stock fraud charge. Michels, patient by court order at the Brady Psychopathic hospital at Colorado Springs, escaped yesterday in Pueblo while he was taking an auto ride with his wife and Miss Ida Hendricks, his nurse. He entered a drug store to buy a cigar and did not return.

Says Dairymen To Lose Millions If Tariff Is Removed

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Millions of dollars in profits will be lost to California dairymen if the Republican tariff is removed from dairy products, Samuel H. Green, secretary of the California Dairy council predicted today.

Green asserted that a Democratic victory means that at least half of the tariff will be reduced.

NO WORD IS HEARD FROM DARING ACE

Fear Felt For Safety of Captain McDonald 24 Hours After Departure NOT SEEN BY SHIPS

Scheduled to Reach Irish Coast This Morning But Storm Out Over Atlantic

By J. T. MEANEY
United Press Special Correspondent
ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Word has been received today from Lieut. Commander H. G. Macdonald, 24 hours after he left Harbor Grace on an attempted non-stop flight across the Atlantic.

If he had tried to return last night, he would have encountered strong southwest winds, heavy fog and rain off the coast. It would have been almost impossible to locate the aircraft.

Inquiries of points along the coast and local shipping off Newfoundland brought no results.

Before starting, Macdonald informed a friend that his gasoline supply was barely sufficient to reach his destination, even with fair weather. In case he encountered head winds or deviated from his course because of fog or other conditions, his fuel supply might be exhausted, he said, and he would try to locate a steamer.

The former British naval officer started—without any great publicity—from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, at 11:40 a. m. (EST) yesterday, hoping to land in England within 18 hours.

So unostentatious was the start that many believed he was just taking his 85 horse power DeHavilland Moth up for an air jaunt. But as darkness crept over this area and the first streaks of dawn came today it was certain Macdonald was risking his life in a dark gamble that the little plane would carry him to England.

He had a narrow margin. The plane is fueled for 20 hours. The course he is believed following is the same that Alcock and Brown used in 1919 when they crossed in 20 hours. Macdonald hopes to arrive within 18 hours.

It is the most daring transatlantic flight ever attempted and made by a man whose air experience is almost negligible as compared with the other illustrious flyers who have attempted overseas flights.

A year ago Macdonald started flying. He made a long distance tour in a Moth down into Africa and there was captured by natives. Rescue came just when the cannibalistic natives had decided to kill him.

That had not given him the thrill he wanted. He announced a transatlantic flight. With little advance notice he arrived in Newfoundland September 27 and started preparations.

So tiny was the plane Macdonald intended using that many could not believe the serious intent of this ruddy, 35 year old former naval officer. His wing spread was but 60 pounds. Its wing spread was but 60 feet. Its motor could develop only

THE CAMPAIGN LOG

(By United Press)
Herbert Hoover is expected to answer at New York Monday the charges made by Governor Smith against the economy of the present republican administration. It was said also that Hoover probably would make his main radio address on the western tour at St. Louis, and a tentative date of November 2 has been set.

Governor Smith in Chicago conferred with Democratic leaders, who were optimistic about chances in Illinois. He also planned to work on the speech he will give there tomorrow night.

A report filed with the House campaign funds committee revealed the Democratic party had borrowed $500,000 from the Country Trust Company of New York to help finance the presidential campaign.

Senator Curtis rested a few hours at Wilmington, Del. today, after a strenuous program which concluded with a luncheon of the republican club at the last even.

Senator Joseph C. R. announced resignation from the Senate at Capitol Hill.

Sierra Line Not Necessary In Orange County, Claim

POSSIBILITY OF EDISON HOOKUP IS TOLD COURT

BULLETIN

Superior Judge James L. Allen late today approved the condemnation of property owned by Benjamin Benson and M. W. Donaldson, through which the Southern Sierras Power company sought a right-of-way for an electric power line. Donaldson was awarded $400, Benson was given $350 and Valeros Benson was granted $30 damages.

The Southern Sierras Power company doesn't need to build a power line through Orange county to Seal Beach, it was declared today by A. P. Nelson, attorney for two property owners whose land the power concern is seeking to condemn for a right-of-way.

Nelson's statement was made before Superior Judge James L. Allen in his final argument to the court after evidence in the two condemnation suits had been heard.

M. B. Wellington, attorney for the power firm, was expected to complete his argument this afternoon. H. W. Donaldson and Benjamin S. Benson are the defendants in the case and their property is part of that involved in the desired right-of-way. The route proposed comes through the Santa Ana canyon and cuts off at the Orange County hospital for Seal Beach.

Nelson declared that testimony showed that the company could hook up with the Southern California Edison company and gain the same end as the new line would give them. Frequency changes would make this possible, Nelson alleged. The cost of such a procedure would be about $450,000, he declared, but pointed out that there would be no need of immediate outlay. On the other hand, he asserted, the power line would cost in the neighborhood of $550,000.

SANTA ANAN HURT WHEN HIT BY CAR

Carl Peterson, 3161-2 North Broadway, suffered a slight concussion of the brain shortly after 1 p. m. today, when he was hit by a car driven by S. E. McKittick, 1087 West Fifth street. The accident occurred at Fourth and Sycamore streets.

Observers said that Peterson started to walk across the street without watching for approaching cars and that he was not in the traffic lane.

Dr. John Ball, president of the board of education, took Peterson to his home. His injury is not regarded as serious. Peterson is about 40 years of age.

criticized Hoover by name in his Sedalia speech.

Hoover was completing his New York address today. It will be the high-light of his campaign. At the same time, the Republican candidate is arranging details of his trip to California. It appears very probable now that he will make the one formal radio address on his way west at St. Louis, in the border state battleground of Missouri, instead of in the northwest. The date for the speech has been fixed tentatively for Nov. 2.

Statements of denial were issued here today relative to two charges brought against Hoover, one questioning his American citizenship, and another that he had held down the price of the 1918 wheat crop. The latter being used in the campaign among the farmers against him.

PLANNING AND WATER TOPICS AT GATHERING

VILLA PARK, Oct. 13.—The planning commission and its relation to water conservation was the theme of a talk given before the Villa Park and Olive farm centers by Thomas E. Pickerill at a meeting held in the Villa Park hall last night.

Pickerill, who is the secretary of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, explained the legality of forming a county planning commission and the advantages that would be derived from such an organization.

The formation of a county planning commission is sponsored by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county and by the Orange County Farm bureau. A resolution was passed asking the supervisors to buy the strip of ground on which the county fairs are held. The members of the farm centers present expressed the opinion that this location was the best that could be obtained. Measures to be taken affecting agriculture were discussed by Norman M. Blaney, secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau. Blaney urged all those present to vote "Yes" on No. 1, the measure on reapportionment.

38 horse power. Its cruising range was only about 3,500 miles. Like Colonel Lindbergh, Macdonald did not install radio into the machine and planned dead reckoning for the selection of a flight course.

Conditions were not believed the most ideal. Last night rain started falling in St. John's. There was a heavy wind.

Flares were lighted at the landing field as Macdonald had told the mechanic he left behind to be certain to light flares should he be forced to turn back. The night was extremely dark and the indications here were that Macdonald and his tiny plane had to grope through both storms and pitchy darkness if the little DeHaviland continued towards England.

OLD MINING DAYS TOLD BY SPEAKER

ORANGE, Oct. 13.—Judge L. F. Coburn gave an interesting account of a recent vacation which he spent in Virginia City, Nevada, at a meeting of the Lions club yesterday. Judge Coburn was a resident of that city during its boom days and he contrasted present conditions with those of the past. While in Virginia City the speaker said he met a number of friends who had not deserted the mining town and who were still devoted to its interests.

C. W. Coffey was the chairman of the day.

BREA

BREA, Oct. 13.—A. R. Sowers, for the past several months manager of the West Side Safeway store, has gone to work in the electrical department of the Union Oil company in this field. H. E. Effler, for 14 months associated with the Anaheim and Santa Ana stores of the company, has been transferred to the Brea store and expects shortly to move his family here.

Initiation of candidates will feature the regular business session of Trinity Rebekah lodge October 22 and Mrs. Mamie Walker, of Huntington Beach, district deputy president, is expected to be present.

Preceding the lodge session a dinner is to be served in the dining hall.

Frank Sowell, member of the Brea city council, has been confined to his home most of this week with a severe cold. He is now able to be at his office as superintendent of the Duro Engineering company, though he is doing as little as possible.

MURDERER OF PARKER GIRL NOT NERVOUS

Charles Edwards, family advisor, told the United Press.

"No newsman will be seen by the mother these next few days," the Captain said. "Mrs. Hickman has not been told that all attempts to stay the execution have failed, but, of course, since she has not been told to the contrary, she must know her son will die sometime tomorrow."

With her on the farm are her 15-year-old daughter, Mary, and her son, Paul, who will try to comfort Mrs. Hickman. These last weeks have left their marks on the woman who once worked in an Arkansas mine to support her family after her husband left her 13 years ago. Edward's execution will undoubtedly take years off her life, according to Captain Edwards.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes your freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.
Simply get an ounce of Othine—some drug store or any drug department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the blemish and get a beautiful complexion. Othine is more than one time needed for the work only.
Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this strength is 100 times more powerful than the one if it fails to remove your freckles—Adv.

LOCAL POLITICAL QUARTERS Today Say

GOVERNOR SMITH (Furnished by the Orange County Democratic Central Committee)
That Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee for President, has worked for the interests of the woman and children of his state, the following facts will show:

He called the legislature in special session when he was Governor in 1919 in order to record New York among the first of the states to ratify the woman suffrage amendment.
As legislator, he secured laws eliminating the evils of child labor; limiting hours of labor for women and children; prohibiting night work for women; establishing widows' pensions and boards of child welfare; and some forty other laws important to the welfare of women and children.

He made the Sheppard-Towner Act for maternity and infant welfare available for New York state. He appointed women to high state offices—President of the Civil Service Commission, Industrial Commissioner, Member of the State Hospital Commission, Chairman of the Industrial Board, and sponsored the first nomination of a woman for state office (Miss Harriet May Mills for Secretary of State in 1920). He removed discrimination against women from the Civil Service rules.

He favored and helped to secure equal pay for women for equal work in the teaching profession.

He obtained equal representation for women in party affairs. As a member of the Port Authority, and also as governor, he has done everything in his power to prevent profiteering in foods and fuels, and aided in reducing the cost of living by radical improvement in the distribution of food. He appointed fuel administrators to safeguard the public from profiteering in fuel and several times instituted investigations into profiteering in foodstuffs.
He has been a consistent advocate of the establishment of Minimum Wage Boards to fix living wages for women and minors in industry. He has always advocated the forty-eight-hour work week and finally in 1937 secured the passage of a law establishing it.

While in the legislature, he fought the battle for state aid to widowed mothers. He made, there, his famous speech in which he said: "I believe in them?"

When a loving mother was preferable to the best institution, and as a result, the Child Welfare Act was placed on the statute books of the state, providing for pensions to widowed mothers which would enable them to keep their children in the home.
He has sponsored many improvements to the act, which, today, stands as the most enlightened in the country. He appointed a Children's Code Commission to revise and codify laws relating to children. This resulted in the passage of a constitutional amendment and laws broadening the powers of and extending children's courts throughout the state, and also in many amendments to the child welfare laws and widows' pension acts.

He aided in the final passage of an amendment reorganizing the Children's Courts, treating juvenile delinquents as wards of the state and not as criminals.
THE WOMEN of the country are on trial in this election. Are we able to think clearly and honestly, or are we going to react emotionally?
When any political party tells us that it can guarantee happier homes, better husbands, or abolish poverty, it is talking nonsense.
Men laugh at such arguments, but think we are now at the game and can be caught by them.
Think Clearly and Honestly
We are not voting for the millennium.
We are not going to be swayed by the bug-a-boo of a false religious issue.
Think clearly on the Prohibition issue.
No candidate for any office is advocating the return of the saloon. If we can discover any one that is, let us know and we'll join the opposition to him.
The prohibition issue is one of law and order.
Prohibition apart, the issue is to give real prohibition to every state that wants it, temperance based on government regulation to the others, and a return to respect for the law for every one. Ask Yourself These Questions
Has prohibition kept liquor from your children?
Hasn't prohibition put this country on a hard liquor basis?
Is temperance achieved by having your sons and daughters obey laws from conviction or by allowing them to obey because they can't believe in them?

With reports at the meeting, this morning, of the general committee for the Santa Ana Breakfast at the Martin airport, Sunday revealing that 100 special guest tickets had been issued and 45 tickets sold for the breakfast, the committee decided to withhold further sale of tickets until a complete check can be made to determine whether or not reservations will exhaust what appears at this time to be a balance of 50 tickets.

In view of the fact that Chef W. K. Duffy and his co-laborers will be more or less at a disadvantage in preparing and serving at the airport, the committee voted to limit the number in attendance to 600. Belief was expressed that 1000 tickets easily could be sold under an intensive campaign, as sales so far have been volunteer reservations by persons who want to participate in what Chairman E. E. Mortland declared today would be one of the biggest events ever staged by a breakfast club in Southern California.

A check on acceptance of invitations by aviators disclosed that there will be at least 50 planes on the field when the 600 men and women sit down to breakfast.

Reporting to the committee, Eugene Kahen, chairman of the program committee, said that he definitely had secured 130 entertainment numbers and that more were available if it was thought advisable to extend the program. The program, as outlined, indicates more than two hours of entertainment, as included in this feature will be the introduction of a large number of prominent people of the Southland who will be offered the opportunity of making two and three-minute addresses.
Dr. T. C. Young, of Glendale, will be the principal speaker, and his address will be limited to 15 minutes.
Kahen said that the Richfield Oil company's saxophone quintet had been added to the program today. Miss Marie Rockwell and Eddie Adams will entertain with special dancing numbers and numbers.

Property valued at $150,000 was left by the late Herman Heim, who died at the age of 75, in Orange, on September 30. It was revealed when his will was filed for probate.

Carl O. Heim, Olive, was named as executor in the will. Mary Street, Emma Meyer and Anna Dandick, daughters of Orange, and Albert Heim, a son of Olive, were named as heirs.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lax, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 50c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store, Mateer's Drug Store.—Adv.

140 YEARS THE PRESIDENTIAL PARADE

EDITOR'S NOTE: Historians will note the Hayes-Tilden election of 1876. This chapter of "The Presidential Parade," Rodney Dutcher's series on presidential politics, tells how Hayes was "elected."

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1928, NEA Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Irregularities and frauds were so prevalent that historians still argue whether Rutherford B. Hayes or Samuel J. Tilden was elected president in the "Stolen Election" of 1876.

No contest like it has ever happened. The result hung on a single electoral vote.

It is obvious that neither man was elected fairly. The methods used to seat Hayes were so arbitrary and narrowly partisan as to suggest acceptance of the verdict of one thorough investigator who finally decided that:

"The Democrats stole the election in the first place and the Republicans stole it back."

Disorganization

Merits of the issue were confused owing to political disorganization of certain southern states. These states were just shaking off carpet-bag rule. Left to themselves, South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana would have gone Democratic. President Grant, the army, the Department of Justice, Republican members of the supreme court and Congress—in short, the whole federal machine, and the Republican national committee—put them in the Hayes column.

Wednesday, Nov. 8, virtually every Republican morning newspaper conceded Tilden's election the day before. He had carried New York, New Jersey, Indiana and Connecticut and was supposed to have the solid south.

How to Prove It?

The Republican national committee, claiming Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina, announced Hayes' election by one vote. The contention was entirely impossible of proof at the time—and still is, for those states were disordered and under military control. Every desperate measure was taken to hold that one vote and the Democrats adopted equally desperate tactics. The Republicans, in power and able to control, won by sheer might, and the Democratic party, more convinced of Tilden's election than many Republicans, was impotent despite efforts of some of its leaders to buy elections.

Even by Republican count, Tilden's plurality was 152,000 votes. The first move to "steal back" the election came when Senator W. E. Chandler, acting for the Republican national committee, wired Republican governors and politicians in three disputed states that Hayes' success depended on their returns. These wires went out the day after election!

Republican leaders then persuaded Grant to send troops into the three states "to protect Republican canvassers." A large troop concentration was made at Tallahassee, the Florida capital. Hayes' election boards were encouraged and Democrats intimidated.

Grafters Carry On

Politicians, loaded with money, poured into Florida and the other states. Chandler had a staff of justice and post office agents working with him and was communicating with Washington by code telegrams. Grant and Hayes would have conceded the election, but the jobholders, spoliemen and political grafters refused to give up, and the two parties arranged separate sets of electors and separate returning boards.

Meanwhile threats were heard to mob the inauguration if the election was given to Hayes: one Democratic editor promised that an army of 100,000 Democrats would march on Washington. The Senate was Republican and the House Democratic, so the existing set-up for determining election results was obviously impossible.

Hence an Electoral Commission law was passed, providing for a board to decide which electors were elected, the board to consist of five senators and five representatives chosen by the two houses, four supreme court justices named in the bill and another justice named by these four. Thus the Republicans had three senators, two justices and two supreme court justices and the Democrats one less senator and one more congressman on the board. The justices would have picked as their

With Justice Davis of Illinois, a Democrat, had he not suddenly—and allegedly a part of the plot—been appointed a senator from Illinois, whereupon Justice Bradley, a Republican, was named. Bradley subsequently cast the deciding vote against Tilden every time.

Fight for Electors

In each state Republican election boards returned Republican electors, sometimes throwing out large blocks of Tilden votes where it was contended negro Republicans had been intimidated. Every one charged fraud everywhere, along with military and civil coercion. Louisiana had two governors, two election boards, two sets of returns, two sets of electors, and so on. In many other states Democrats were trying to disqualify a Hayes elector so that a Democratic governor might appoint a Tilden elector.

The Democrats brought a flock of contentions. But the supposedly non-partisan commission voted eight to seven against them every time on party lines. When the Democrats showed that the Florida Hayes electors had not been elected, but appointed in conspiracy by a governor who had later certified the Tilden electors, that a court had upheld the Tilden slate, the Republicans replied that the Tilden electors had not been certified by "the right man at the right time."

The Hayes ticket was finally declared elect—185 to 164, as against an originally supposed 203 to 166 for Tilden. It is said for the eight majority members of the commission that they believed they were fighting to save the Union and that any means was justified, but George Ticknor Curtis in his Constitutional History of the United States says of the politicians' plot to get the 19 votes needed for Hayes:

"It was an undertaking from which timid men would have shrunk with fear and honorable men contemplated with horror."

Reputations Blasted

Reputations of important Republican leaders were badly tarnished, but indisputable evidence was later discovered that Tilden leaders, in code telegrams—nearly 30,000 of which were sent during the fight—had engaged in a deal to buy the Florida governor and election board for $200,000, which was stopped, if at all, by a complaint from New York that this was too high. Then the Tilden workers got options on "two or three electors" for $75,000.

Some of the Tilden men even admitted their bribery attempts, declaring Tilden had been elected and that bribery was needed to beat fraud.

The Democrats have always referred to what happened as "the crime of '76," and Republicans have never been very proud of it.

IMPROVEMENTS ON FREE M. E. CHURCH BEGUN

A much needed improvement is being made in the property of the First Free Methodist church of Santa Ana, located at the corner of Fruit and Minter streets.

The church originally was located on Bush street, near Fifth. The present site later was purchased and a parsonage built. Later the Bush street lot was sold and the church moved to the present site and placed on the inside lot.

After the present pastor, the Rev. W. C. Reynolds, was stationed here last July, it was decided to sell one lot and move the parsonage back, facing it on Minter and to set the church where the parsonage had stood. In a very short time a buyer was found and the improvement begun.

O. V. Dart, Santa Ana house mover, who was given the contract for moving the buildings, moved the parsonage back yesterday.

The work of excavating for a basement under the church will start immediately. This will serve for Sunday school classrooms and also provide kitchen and dining room facilities for special occasions. As soon as the basement is completed the church will be moved to its new location.

Some sweeping changes will be made in the church building. A balcony is to be built in and the entrance changed from the center to the corner. The pulpit also will be moved to a corner. A tower will be erected and rest rooms built in. The lighting will be changed throughout and new fixtures installed. A new heating plant will be provided and the auditorium completely redecorated. The estimated cost of the improvement is around $20,000.

Herbert Straw is in charge of building operations and Joe Ward is chairman of the building committee.

CHAIN GOES INTO UTAH

The NBC system has stretched its network into Utah with the addition of Station KSL at Salt Lake City in its chain of stations. KSL takes the Lucky Strike Hour each week.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

BEACH LEGION POST OPPOSES AMENDMENT 5

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—A campaign to defeat amendment No. 5, which would rule out regulated boxing in the state of California, has been launched by the local American Legion post.

Committees have been appointed by Dr. Gordon Grundy, vice commander, to carry on an active campaign in the harbor district. Stickers advising voters to vote "NO" on the proposition were being distributed by the Legionnaires here today.

The committee, headed by Theodore Robins and J. H. Estus, points out that under the present law five per cent of the proceeds goes to the benefit of disabled war veterans of all wars. They state that during the past two years more than $500,000 has been received from the act to assist disabled war veterans.

The amendment will not rule boxing out of the state as four round bouts will still be permitted, Robins stated today. The act will merely remove the boxing commission and will remove a large source of revenue for disabled war veterans, he said.

PERMIT GIVEN P. E. FOR NEW ORANGE TRACK

ORANGE, Oct. 18.—The Pacific Electric railway was granted a temporary permit to commence the relocation of its tracks along Cypress street at a meeting of the city council yesterday. The permit was granted pending the city council's action on a recent ordinance giving the company a new franchise goes into effect.

Work of removing the old tracks and installing new will be commenced at once in order not to delay the work on the new units of the California Wire company and the Santiago Growers' association. J. A. Hallman, at the head of the decorating committee for the American Legion Armistice day program, reported that with the decorations all purchased a sum of money was left which it was proposed should be used to transform the fountain in the plaza to an electric fountain for the two days preceding the day of the celebration.

Hallman explained that it would be necessary to install an overhead line to permit a larger flow of water in the fountain to accomplish this effect. W. J. Richardson, superintendent of the city waterworks, was given permission by the council to co-operate with Hallman in making the required changes.

Bids on the cement and excavation for the protective work along Santiago creek, was read. Bids to furnish between 250 and 350 sacks of cement were received from Van Dien-Young and company and the Barr Lumber company, of Santa Ana, both firms making a bid of $1.06 a barrel. Two Los Angeles companies, the Southwestern Portland Cement company and the Monolith Portland Cement company, submitted bids to furnish cement at $2.90 a barrel.

Bids on the pouring and mixing of cement were received from Walter Durker, who bid $1.75 a cubic yard and $1.10 a cubic yard for the excavation work. A bid of $1.25 for pouring and mixing, $1.15 for excavation was received from Clyde Pentecost.

A decision on the bids will be given at the meeting of the council October 23 pending a decision from the attorney of the Union Rock company on the proceedings as now outlined.

S. M. Patton, living outside the city limits near Collins avenue, was given permission to install a meter and to use city water under the regulations made in an ordinance for such consumers.

C. E. Jones, who owns and operates a pool hall at 155 North Glassell street, asked permission for his son, William, not yet 17 years of age, to play pool in his hall. The request was denied.

W. R. C. President Visits Corps In La Habra Tonight

LA HABRA, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Emma J. Alexander, of Beverly Hills, department president of the W. R. C., will make her official visit to the local Woman's Relief corps tonight.

Plans for a Thanksgiving dinner will be given by the corps on November 1, will be made at the meeting.

Officers of the Whittier corps met with the local officers this afternoon for drill and to coach the local chapter in preparation for inspection November 15, at which time the department inspector will pay her official visit.

NIGHT BASEBALL TEAMS PLANNED IN BEACH CITY

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—Formation of three and possibly four night baseball teams is under way here today. The Exchange club, which already has a baseball team and has played several games with the Lions club, will have one of the teams. The grammar school grounds will be lighted for the ball games.

American Legion members voted to form a baseball team at a meeting this week and it is understood that the chamber of commerce is planning the formation of a baseball team. Several business organizations in the city are expected to take up baseball.

Several teams are being formed in the Costa Mesa district. The Lions club at Costa Mesa already has a team while the chamber of commerce and several business concerns are preparing to form teams. It is expected that the teams will join together in forming a harbor league. Plans are also under way in Costa Mesa to raise funds to light a field in that district.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Card Party

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—A card party will feature the regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary next Tuesday night. It was reported here today by officers of the organization. The affair is to be held in the Legion but at Tenth street and the Bay front.

Bridge and "500" will be played during the evening. Mrs. Grace Cox, chairman of the finance committee of the organization, is in charge of arrangements for the card party. The party will open at 8 o'clock. It is the first social gathering to be held by the auxiliary this season and preparations are being made for a large attendance.

Refreshments will be served during the evening by a committee appointed by Mrs. Gladys Thompson, newly elected president of the body.

Pasadenan Buys Newport Garage

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—Harold J. Johnson, of Pasadena, has purchased the garage formerly operated by Charles M. Craig on Bay avenue near the fire hall. The consideration involved was not made public. Johnson was a mechanic in a local shop many years ago.

He has moved with his family into a home which he owns in Balboa and will make his permanent home here.

EXCHANGE CLUB HEARS TALK BY EDISON CHIEF

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—The newspaper is the best and most useful medium of advertising, Richard E. Smith, advertising manager for the Southern California Edison company, declared in an address before the Exchange club here yesterday. Smith declared that advertisements constituted news and that the mood of the public must be considered when advertising.

He declared that a theater program for the average business because persons attending the theater were in a mood to be entertained and were not seeking business. The speaker advised local business men to "bottle their advertising down" and to concentrate on one thing, telling us completely as possible and in as few words the characteristics of the article.

Smith declared that the business man who failed to change his methods during the past five years was not enjoying the greatest success. He pointed out the changes in business methods, of buying and selling, in displaying goods and in checking business.

The old system of purchasing enough goods to last a year is gone and the business man of today buys only enough to supply his trade for a short time, the speaker said. Clerks of today are neater in appearance and apply salesmanship principles. The day of easy credits is gone and the modern business is either carried out on a cash basis or on a close credit system, Smith stated.

A recommendation that from 1 to 10 per cent of the gross profits of every business be spent in advertising was made by the speaker. Final arrangements were made yesterday for a golf tournament to be played Friday afternoon at the Santa Ana country club by members of the Exchange club. More than 60 members are expected to take part in the tournament.

Next Tuesday the members of the Exchange club will visit the Costa Mesa Lions club. A baseball game, a return encounter, will be played at that time. The Exchange club won a contest from the Lions here recently and the Lions are out for revenge. The game is to start at noon and the luncheon will be served by the Costa Mesa Woman's Friday afternoon club following the fracas. It will be a five inning affair.

Considerable discussion arose at the Exchange club meeting yesterday over the endorsement of a resolution opposing amendment No. 5 on the ballot. The matter was finally tabled. A resolution approving amendment No. 2, which provides an appropriation of $1,000,000 to care for the Olympic games to be held in Los Angeles in 1932, was approved by the club members.

PRESENT CONCERT AT MESA TONIGHT

COSTA MESA, Oct. 18.—Funds which will be used to beautify the Southern Pacific railroad right-of-way through Costa Mesa, will be raised tonight when a vocal and instrumental concert will be presented featuring a number of well known musicians. The affair is to be given in the grammar school auditorium.

Vladimir Lenski, noted violinist, will feature the program. Mrs. Fanny Bixby Spencer, sponsor of a play now showing in Los Angeles, will read a number of stories in verse. Miss Claire Germain, of Balboa, will sing. Mrs. Belle Grieschner will be the accompanist.

Work of beautifying the railroad right-of-way has already started with W. C. Spencer planting approximately two blocks of the road-side to artistic palms. It is the plan of those backing the project to improve the entire right-of-way along the highway from Santa Ana to Newport Beach. It is expected that sufficient funds will be realized tonight to complete the work through Costa Mesa proper.

MESA WILDCAT WELL READY FOR OIL PRODUCTION TEST; L. B. OPERATORS GET LEASES

COSTA MESA, Oct. 18.—The Costa Mesa Petroleum company today was completing final preparations for a production test of its well on Nineteenth street. The company has been proceeding carefully during the past few days and every precaution has been taken to safeguard the well in the production test.

Three hundred feet of perforated casing was set in the bottom of the hole yesterday in preparation for making the test. Tanks have been erected and a heavy check valve has been placed on the top of the casing, indicating that those in charge of the drilling are confident of striking oil with probably heavy gas pressure.

The bottom of the hole is now at 200 feet. It is expected that swabbing will start at the well some time today in an effort to place it on production.

While the company is carrying out its careful production tests, oil activity has sprung up anew in the eastern section of Costa Mesa, according to reports. Several leases have been signed in the district during the past few days, it is reported.

Vagel, McBride and McPherson, who were connected with the drilling of the Liberty well in the section north and east of Costa Mesa in 1916, are said to be the persons interested in leasing land in the district. The company is composed of Long Beach men and has much of the territory formerly held by the Marine Oil company, later quitclaimed back to the owners.

It is reported that the leases call for a test well to be started within 30 days.

60 PRESENT AT RECEPTION FOR BEACH PASTOR

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—More than 60 persons attended a reception at the Balboa church last night for the Rev. Byron Sundt, new pastor of the community. The reception was held under the auspices of the Aid society of the Balboa church.

The Rev. Lyman R. Bayard, pastor of the Community Methodist church at Costa Mesa, gave an address of welcome to the new pastor. The Rev. G. W. Kittmiller, superintendent of the Sunday School department of the Balboa church, welcomed the new pastor on behalf of the Sunday school, while George Russell, president of the church board, extended greetings to the new church leader from the board.

The Rev. Lawson Watkins, new pastor of the Newport Beach Community Methodist church, was introduced at the meeting. Following the addresses, refreshments were served by the Aid society and a social hour was enjoyed.

Vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Meyers and Miss Winfield, students of the University of Southern California.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening young people of the church will enjoy a Halloween social at the chapel. The primary department children will attend the affair in the afternoon while the older pupils of the Sunday school will be present in the evening.

Plan Examination For Mail Carrier, Clerk At Balboa

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—An examination for clerk and village delivery carrier is to be held in the near future to supply the Balboa post office with a regular carrier. It was announced here today. The Balboa post office was recently authorized to establish home to home delivery service in the city.

Information regarding the examination may be secured from the secretary of the U. S. civil service board, who may be reached by addressing the Balboa post office.

CUTICURA HEALS BREAKING OUT

Pimples on Face, Festering and Itched.

"After months ago I had breaking out pimples on my face and neck. I tried many remedies and failed. I did not scratch more than I could help, and the irritation sometimes kept me from sleeping. The trouble lasted about three weeks."

"I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. It seemed to help me and I was completely healed. I have since used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and have not had a recurrence of my trouble. I am now a healthy man and feel like a new man."

Reception Interference Not Serious Problem In S. A.

ADJUSTMENTS ARE ORDERED IN RADIO SLATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(Nationwide changes in the allocation of broadcasting stations as made public by the Federal Radio Commission September 10 were announced by the commission today. The new allocation is effective November 11.

The changes apply to stations on clear and regional channels. Alterations in the assignments of some of the local or small power stations will be announced later. In revealing the modification of the allocation plan the commission issued the following statement:

Extensive Checking
"The changes are due in part to the fact that extensive checking has revealed possibilities for deriving greater service to the public on certain channels and for more economical use of daytime hours; in part to the desire to remedy certain injustices to particular stations and certain sections of the country without the expense of a hearing, and in part to the necessity of correcting a few sources of interference."

The list of changes includes:
California: KFSD, San Diego, from 500 to 1000 watts for daytime operation; KGB, San Diego, from 1540 to 1590 kilocycles; KJBS, San Francisco, from 1370 to 1100 kilocycles and changed to daylight time not sharing with KZM; KLB, Oakland, from 1270 to 880 kilocycles and changed to full-time operation; KTAB, Oakland, from 1270 to 1280 kilocycles, full-time; KYA, San Francisco, from 1230 to 1280 kilocycles.
New Mexico: KOB, State College, from 500 to 10,000 watts.

Oregon: KAV, Portland, from 500 to 630 kilocycles; KOAC, Corvallis, from 1250 to 560 kilocycles, changed to full-time; KWWJ, Portland, from 1500 to 1600 kilocycles, limited time, from 90 to 500 watts; KKL, Portland, changed to sharing time with KFAU.
Washington: KPFO, Spokane, from 1230 to 1280 kilocycles; KFOA, Seattle, from 1290 to 1370 kilocycles; KFFY, Spokane, from 100 to 500 watts and from 1210 to 1390 kilocycles, changed to sharing with KWC; KIQ, Spokane, from 920 to 950 kilocycles, changed to full-time; KOMO, Seattle, from 920 to 930 kilocycles; KTW, Seattle, from 1280 to 1270 kilocycles; KWSB, Pullman, from 570 to 1280 kilocycles, changed to sharing with KFFY; KXA, Seattle, changed to sharing with KUOM.

MARSHALL TAKES OVER BOSCH RADIO

The Marshall Radio Service, at 614 East Fourth street, well known among radio fans, today announced the extension of the business to include a complete sales and service department, featuring the new Bosch eight-tube radio.

H. R. Marshall, owner of the Marshall Radio Service, has been operating in Santa Ana as a radio technician for the past two and one-half years.

The new Bosch radio receiver was chosen from among those available on the market because it includes features superior to all other makes remaining open for local representation, stated Marshall, and is an eight-tube set with push-pull amplification, dynamic loud speaker and the famous neodymium circuit which makes possible a very unusual selectivity.

WILL LEAD ORCHESTRA BY TELEVISION

Directing his main orchestra in person and televising his movements to another group far back stage, Fritz Reiner, shown in inset, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, believes he will be able to produce a more perfect rendition of the difficult Mahler Symphony No. 2.

Cincinnati Conductor Will Appear In Two Places At Same Time

CINCINNATI, Oct. 18.—While Fritz Reiner, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, will be conducting his musicians, on the stage of the concert hall here, he will also appear before a smaller orchestra far removed from the first and separated by thick walls.

Thus one man will appear in two places at the same time. The catch is that while Reiner will direct one orchestra in person he will appear before the other by television.

Reiner's will be the first attempt to make use of television in the production of a difficult symphony. This is the Mahler symphony No. 2, which calls at one point for a full orchestra, organ, soloists and a small orchestra back stage.

This piece will be played in a concert on the night of November 17 in this city. It has been played before, but in every case an assistant director had to be employed to conduct the smaller orchestra back stage and keep his eyes glued through a hole in the wall on Reiner, in order to maintain the same tempo.

HARD TO GET RIGHT EFFECT.
The difficulty was that, because of this arrangement, Reiner could not achieve the sound effects he desired, especially from the auxiliary orchestra. According to Reiner, Mahler's score demands that the sound of the small orchestra be comparable to a faint, almost inaudible breath of music brought

WILL REALLOCATION OF RADIO STATIONS BE BENEFIT? READ VIEWPOINTS OF WHITE, CLANCY

Will reallocation benefit the public?

That question has been debated probably more than any other that has come up since the introduction of radio and the following speeches, made the U. S. house of representatives, during the debate on the question there, probably will serve to give radio fans further insight into the matter. Representative Wallace H. White jr., Republican, of Maine, supported the measure, and Representative Robert H. Clancy, Republican, of Michigan, opposed it. Their speeches, taken from the Congressional Record, are given below.

By HON. WALLACE H. WHITE, JR.,
U. S. Representative, Maine
Republican

I do not like to talk and rave about monopolies, but there are some significant things to be observed. There are allocated to the stations in New York City, if we charge to this city those stations which have their studios there, in round numbers, twice as many allocated to the great southern zone of 11 states. There is allocated to that zone alone almost 37,000 watts more of power than to the fifth zone, comprising half of the United States.

If you go into it further you will find that there are 13 stations owned by the General Electric, the Westinghouse, the Radio Corporation of America, and the National Broadcasting company, which, speaking in terms of radio

This amendment is a radical departure from the purpose of the 1927 law. Congress, by the language in the 1927 law, undertook to insure, as far as possible, equitable radio service to the listening public in every section of the country. The right to operate a broadcasting station depended on the wishes of the listening public.

The amendment asserts an entirely different theory as a basis for granting a broadcast license. It requires that each zone shall have an equal number of stations, an equal amount of power, and an equal number of waves or channels. The citizens of each zone have no choice. They must take these stations, power, and waves, and the power of each of the zones must be equalized every 30 days, which is the license period specified by this amendment. The unavoidable result will be that the uniform number of stations, power, and waves will be controlled by the zone having the least number of stations, power and waves. It cannot be otherwise because the law will require an equality, and there is nothing in the law which permits the freedom of an increase in number of stations or the power to be used. The number can be decreased or power decreased, but not increased. This means that four of the five zones must be cut in stations and power.

The desires of the will of the listening public in any zone is not a factor to be considered in determining the number of broadcast stations they shall have. The ability to obtain acceptable material for a continuous broadcast program is not a factor which can be considered. Each zone must have an equality of stations, power and waves. If the listening public is more anxious to have a broadcasting station located in their community than it is the character of program it receives, then they should favor the amendment, because it provides for equal number of stations; but if the public is more anxious to have a variety of good programs from stations capable of getting material and talent to make a good program, then the public should oppose this amendment. They must choose, because they cannot have both if this amendment becomes a law.

Members of congress who favored this amendment argued that

Republicans Talk Daily Over KWTC

Through arrangements made by the Republican county central committee, five-minute political speeches are being made every evening, from 9:55 to 10, from KWTC, Santa Ana's radio station.

Speakers will be on the air every night up to and including November 5, extolling the Republican candidate for president, and the G. O. P., in general.

Z. B. West, jr., Orange county district attorney, will be this afternoon's speaker, and T. B. Talbot, chairman of the Republican county central committee, will go on the air tomorrow afternoon. Dr. R. A. Cushman, former chairman of the committee, spoke yesterday.

The entire list of speakers has not, as yet, been completed. It was pointed out today, but all the addresses will be delivered by men well versed in the affairs of the Republican party.

BALBOA RADIO FAN GETS MANY DISTANT POINTS

Edward A. Ham, of Balboa, has been a radio fan for a long time, but never was his interest in distance aroused to such an extent as it has been since purchasing, recently, a new Royale all-electric radio from the Preston Radio company, of Santa Ana.

In fact, Ham notified Preston today, the new Royale brought in distance with such apparent ease that he decided to go after one of the prizes offered for long-distance reception by the DX club, conducted by Radio Doing, radio magazine published in Los Angeles.

Ham went after distance in earnest and soon had a list of stations ready to present to the DX club. His letter to the club, submitting his record, was in part, as follows:

"Up until now I never felt as though I had a chance at once of your prizes, but three weeks ago I bought a new Royale electric radio and in three weeks here's what I have tuned in: KFUD, KDS, WHO, KMTR, KLB, WPAW, KFB, KGW, KFL, KFRC, KFOA, KFSD, WXLX, WLV, KFO, WGN, CKWX, WLIE, JOKE, KWKH, KOB, KHI, PWX, JOAK, WBBM, KGO, KNRC, WDAF, KFWB, JOKE, ISL, KKA, KWG, KJR, JOKE, WSL, KNL, KOA, KPC, KFSN, KDKA, KOIN, KOIL, KSL, KOMO, KOMX, KQV, CNRV, WENR, KFAD, KPLA, KPFX, KTAB, KEX, KWTC, KFWL, KGU, KTEL, KGFH, WREN, KEJK, KFSB, KMO, KGP, KZM, KPON, KELW, KEWM, KFQZ, KPW, KQW, KFLB, KMIC, KXL, KQVD, KGER, KGFJ, KPCR, KWBS.

"I couldn't get the Japs until 1 a. m. and 2BL until after 3 a. m. and KGU after 10 p. m. and that not every night."

Two Big Football Games To Be Put On Air Saturday

Two more football games will go on the air Saturday and will be available to Southern California radio-football fans. It was revealed today in the announcement that KPLA, in Los Angeles, would broadcast play-by-play reports of the Harvard-Army and U. S. C.-California games.

The Harvard-Army struggle, at Cambridge, will start at 11:30 a. m. Pacific coast time, and the game in Berkeley will go on the air at 2:30 p. m. That ought to be enough football in one day for anybody.

BROADCAST TO PAY TRIBUTE TO THOMAS EDISON

In tribute to the achievements of Thomas A. Edison a medal from the U. S. government will be presented to the great genius of American invention on October 20, ceremonies attending which will be broadcast on an international scale at 6 o'clock, Pacific coast time, through the courtesy of the General Electric company. KFI will broadcast the program.

President Calvin Coolidge, Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University and Ronald Campbell, counselor charge d'affaires of the British Embassy, will take part in the program.

This broadcast of recognition will take place on the eve of the 45th anniversary of the electrical wizard's invention of the incandescent lamp and is known as Edison Night. The General Electric company has honored the aged inventor with similar ceremonies for the past four years.

The program will open with a short address delivered by President Calvin Coolidge in Washington. Microphones in Mr. Edison's laboratory in West Orange will then pick up Mr. Mellon's presentation of the medal. This was provided by a resolution of congress on May 29, 1928, and executed under the direction of the secretary of the treasury by John R. Sinnock of Philadelphia. Dr. John Grier Hibben will then speak. In the absence of Sir Emme Howard, British ambassador, Ronald Campbell will return to Mr. Edison his first phonograph. This has rested in the South Kensington Museum in London for 39 years.

MAJESTICS STOLEN BY ARMED BANDITS

So great has become the demand for Majestic radios that the product now has become the target of attacks on the part of hijackers. The Turner Radio company, at 221 West Fourth street, was notified today.

The Chicago distributor has wired dealers in Southern California, notifying them that a truckload of Majestics recently were hijacked by a gang of heavily armed bandits and asking them to be on the lookout for sets carrying defaced serial numbers.

HONG KONG PLANS NEW RADIO STUDIO

A radio broadcasting station complete with studio has been definitely decided on by Hong Kong officials according to press reports reaching Washington. The proposed station, which will be under government auspices, will use the call letters GOW, on a 300-meter wave length. It is expected that the service will be built up until programs from London can be relayed.

WILL BE HONORED

Thomas A. Edison, America's famous and foremost inventor, who will be honored at ceremonies which are to be put on the air over the National Broadcasting company's chain on the night of October 20. The government will present Edison with a medal and among the famous men who will speak will be President Coolidge.

RADIO DRAMA TO DEPICT LIFE OF GOV. SMITH

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A complete radio drama depicting the career of Governor Alfred E. Smith from his boyhood days on Oliver street, will be broadcast by the Democratic national committee next Sunday evening.

Never before has such an elaborate campaign undertaking been attempted. The drama will be based upon the Smith biography, "Up From the City Streets." The radio adaptation has been arranged by Fulton Oursler, famous as the author of "The Spider."

Twenty-seven Broadway celebrities, including Helen Hayes, Peggy Wood, Willard Mack and Rosamond Pinchoff, will have a part in the invisible drama. The story begins in Oliver street, in New York's East Side, and ends in Houston and Albany shortly after "the happy warrior" has received the democratic presidential nomination.

Oursler's adaptation presents the story through the eyes of "Betty" and "Billy," a young married couple, who pay a visit to the old Smith homestead in Oliver street after having read "Up From the City Streets."

Governor Smith has revealed a lively interest in the project. He wired national headquarters here, from Sedalia, Mo., that he wished the manuscript of the dramatization preserved.

The biography will be broadcast over a Columbia chain of 20 stations from WABC, New York, beginning at 4:30 p. m. Coast time. KMTR is the Los Angeles link in the Columbia chain.

CHAIN TO START SOON

The Trans-Canada Broadcasting company expects to have seven weekly chain broadcasts on the air in eastern Canada this winter. This company is the new NBC of the dominion.

OTHER CITIES SUFFER WORSE FATE, IS CLAIM

By THE RADIO EDITOR

Interference, that bugaboo of radio reception that makes ravaging maniacs of stalwart men and women, is a condition that "just is" and Santa Ana, although comparatively free of such a condition, is no different than the average city in that it does have to put up with a certain amount of disturbance occasionally, according to radio dealers.

There are a few places in Santa Ana where interference seems to have become a "permanent institution," and the Radio Dealers' association of Santa Ana, the Pacific Electric Railway and the Edison company have put their heads together in a study that promises to find a solution for the problem at a date in the not too far distant future.

Locations in the city which have suffered most from interference are the corner of Fourth and Station streets, in the vicinity of the Laoy street substation and south on Maple as far as Delhi road and for a distance of a block on either side of Maple street.

Although Santa Ana radio fans have noticed and have been bothered by interference from time to time, experience reported by innumerable other cities in California and throughout the country show that Santa Ana is rather more fortunate than many other communities of its size. Sometimes it is necessary to spend thousands of dollars to clear up such conditions as was the case of San Diego, about a year ago, but it will not be necessary to do to any such expense to correct the trouble here, it is believed.

The Pacific Electric and Edison company always have been more than willing to lend their assistance and to bend every effort to locate and eliminate sources of trouble. The radio dealers point out that often they are called by set owners who think that the interference is caused by trouble in the equipment. Although such usually is the case, they point out, they are glad to get such complaints for it enables them to put the Edison company or Pacific Electric on the trail of the trouble, with the result that it soon is eliminated.

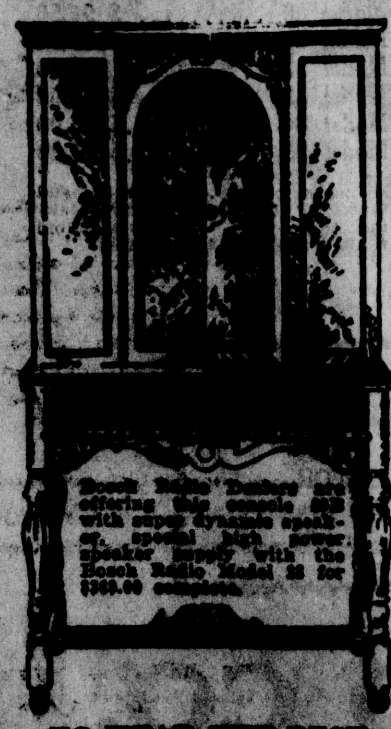

San Diego, it is pointed out, was one of the noisiest points of reception in the country about a year ago, but after thousands had been spent to remedy the situation the city became one of the quietest locations in the country. The trouble was so serious in San Diego, it is declared, that it was found necessary to change the circuit breakers in street cars and rebond all street car rails.

Santa Ana is not faced by any such condition, however, and interference problems here consist merely of small troubles that easily are remedied.

MUSIC COURSE PRESENTED BY STANDARD OIL

The Standard school broadcast and the standard symphony hour to be given by the Standard Oil company of California on Thursdays, from 11 to 11:30 in the morning and from 7:30 to 8:30 in the evening, respectively, beginning today, must be regarded as one of the most important developments in the history of the Pacific coast.

The plan is to maintain the same high quality of entertainment during the Standard symphony hour on Thursday evenings, but to supplement this with an educational program for the benefit of the schools, and all who care to listen. The Standard school broadcast in the mornings will consist of a series of musically illustrated lectures on the evening programs prepared by Arthur S. Jarrett, continuity editor of the National Broadcasting company, and given with the assistance of the Arion Trio. Jarrett has also prepared the evening programs of the best symphonic music, which will be given under the direction of Max Dolin. While the Standard symphony hour in the evenings is designed purely for the entertainment of the radio public, the programs are so arranged as to cover a complete course in the development of music over a period of nearly two centuries. Special attention is given to the development of American music in the first lecture and concert.

In the new educational plan, the Standard Oil company of California is pioneering in a new development of commercial broadcasting of far-reaching possibilities. The Standard school broadcast is an experiment in public service. The musical courses have been planned with the assistance of Samuel Hume, director of vocational activities in the public schools of California, to meet a growing need for cultural education in the schools with which to supplement the severely practical trend of modern education.

RADIO REPAIR SHOP IS OPENED BY HALL

D. E. Hall, who spent four years in the repair department of the Robertson Electric company, has opened a repair shop at 114 North Main street and announces himself ready to repair any and all makes of radio sets.

Hall declared that in a couple of weeks he would take over the agency for two well known makes of radio.

WHAT'S YOUR TROUBLE?

This department is conducted by an expert radio technician, who, without cost to you, will answer any and all of your questions pertaining to radio troubles. Radio fans are invited to make use of this department, which may save them time and money on their radio sets. Address your communications to "The Radio Editor, The Register, Santa Ana."

Q.—I have just bought a new electric radio and get a very noticeable hum. The dealer from whom the set was purchased says that this is the AC hum and cannot be avoided. Is this true?

B. M., Costa Mesa.

A.—The question you have brought up is timely in that the same question has been asked many times—and answered—but apparently there still is some misunderstanding on this point. All electric radios in which the audio system has been properly designed will reproduce some AC hum. However, this hum should not be so noticeable as to be offensive. You may make a simple test in your home which will enable you to decide for yourself. Tune in a distant station, say 100 or 150 miles away, and turn up the volume to a point where you normally would set it for that particular station. Then slightly detune the dial. Without the covering effect of the music, you should then get an indication of how much the receiver hums under unfavorable conditions. Provided, of course, that your loud speaker will reproduce the very low tones. To be entirely satisfactory the hum should be so weak that it cannot be heard in a quiet room 10 feet from a loud speaker. However, don't ever get the impression that an electric radio which has no hum is best. Cheap transformers which will not reproduce the lower notes will not bring out the AC hum.

Q.—Would like to know what causes a loud roaring noise in my set. It comes on at irregular intervals and lasts sometimes 15 seconds, sometimes a half-hour or more. It blankets all of the stations, though it seems worse on KNX. J. M. B., Santa Ana.

A.—There are so many sources that may cause such disturbance that I shall not try to enumerate all of them, but briefly the most probable ones are the electrical trailing machines used in physicians' offices, and electrical appliances in your neighborhood. Among the latter, vacuum cleaners and vibrators seem to give the most trouble. These disturbances will feed back through the lighting mains into your set. Several cities, among them Portland, Ore., have city ordinances prohibiting the use of electrical equipment that causes radio interference, between specified hours. A similar ordinance is being drafted in Los Angeles.

Q.—I have a seven-tube set. It seems very noisy. I get a great deal of static. My neighbor has a five-tube set that is considerably quieter than mine. What can be done to my set to stop the noise? V. R. Y., City.

A.—Your set is more sensitive than your neighbor's and consequently it is susceptible to static more so than the set having only five tubes. For some time past there have been storms in various parts of the country, and reception has been unusually noisy. If the sensitivity of your set were reduced, you would not be able to play distant stations that you are now able to play and your neighbor cannot. Operate your set with a minimum volume control setting consistent with sufficient volume to hear plainly and you will find that the noise will not be so objectionable.

Q.—Can I add another tube to my five-tube receiver to give me distant stations? M. W. Tustin.

A.—It is not practical to build an extra tube into your present set. There are several screen-grid radio frequency kits on the market that may be assembled as a separate unit and if properly constructed would add considerably to your DX list.

REALLOCATION NOT FAVORED BY CLANCY

It gives to each section of the country an equality of stations, power and waves and such an arrangement will not interfere with the reception of distant stations. All it will do is to cut down the number of distant stations in order that you may have your own local radio stations, the same as the people in the larger centers. This sounds attractive, but not a single congressman who takes this position ever operated a broadcasting station in his life, knows comparatively little of the practical side of broadcasting, and his promise is the mere guess and hope of an uninformed person as to what will happen if his scheme is tried.

This amendment means that millions of people throughout the country will not be able to get any of the larger stations which may have been their favorites. It means that millions of listeners who have enjoyed the remarkable talent of Chicago, New York and the other large cities must give up this luxury and accept the local talent of their respective communities.—Extracts see 4, p. 236.

White Declares Reallocation To Prove Big Help

constitute a single interest, and there are allocated to this interest 215,000 watts power, which is one-third of all of the power throughout the United States, one-third of all the power allocated to, roughly, 675 stations. Talk to me about equity under this situation! This is the situation which was brought to the knowledge of the committee on merchant marine and fisheries. And what were we to do about it? This amendment is the answer of the committee to this inequality, to this injustice. Where did this amendment spring from? What was the inspiration of the amendment? The chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, the only lawyer appointed, the only member confirmed, at the time, suggested to use that the proper construction of the law was that there should be a pro-rata among the states, and if that is not precisely what we have undertaken to do among the zones, then I do not know what language means. We have provided for the zones of this country an equal division of stations and power and wave lengths. We have stopped there and then have provided that within these zones there may be an exercise of discretion, that older elements may be taken into account, and that there shall be a fair and equitable distribution according to population. On that amendment I stand, and to that amendment I give my cordial support.

What is back of the opposition to this amendment? Strip it of everything, look at it in all of its hideous nakedness, and this is a fight by those who are in to stay in. This is an assertion on the part of those who oppose this amendment that they have vested rights. They are asserting a right above the obligation of congress to legislate in behalf of the whole United States. They are asserting a right to hold that which they

With the approach of the season of best radio reception, radio sales are being stimulated throughout the west, according to the Western Auto Supply company.

It is reported that in the territory west of the Rocky mountains that is served by the more than 150 Western Auto stores, sales have greatly increased during the past few weeks and it has only been recently that the demand for the new and popular Western Auto company's A. C. sets.

'Air Editor' Helps School Children

Pupils of a Sheridan school decided recently that their schoolhouse should be made more attractive both inside and out. So they wrote a letter to Helen Webster, editor of the "Women's Magazine of the Air" at the San Francisco studio of the National Broadcasting company, asking about color schemes. Miss Webster promptly advised them.

first acquired. They are seeking to overcome by their opposition to this amendment the future of this great southern zone, and they are seeking to foreclose the future of this great section of the country lying to the west.

Let me tell you that if you have only a local viewpoint, if your ears are attuned only to the call of selfishness, if you subscribe to the doctrine that any station has rights superior to the authority of this government, if you are indifferent to inequality and injustice, if you can see a part only instead of the whole United States, you will be opposed to this amendment; but if you see this nation as a whole, if you visualize the American people as one people, and if you think of this United States of ours as a Union of sovereign and equal states, then you will support this amendment.—Extracts see 2, p. 236.

Conductor Will Appear In Two Places At Once

to the listener only occasionally as if waited over by the wind. In the former arrangement, the smaller orchestra had to be back stage and therefore too close to the audience to produce the effect desired. The assistant director, reading the small group, would have to be separated from Reiner only by a curtain or wall through which a hole had been pierced, in order that he may keep in close harmony and time with the main orchestra.

Through the use of television, however, Reiner can relegate the small orchestra back far enough from the stage so as to produce the reality of faintness and distance required by the score.

LIKE BROADCASTING "MINE"

Standing on the stage before Reiner, while he is conducting the main orchestra, will be a television transmitter which will catch the movements of the director. On a small television screen in the room occupied by the small orchestra, Reiner and his baton will appear.

The movements of Reiner on the screen will be simultaneous with his actions on the stage in person and will be directed not only for the large group but for the hidden orchestra as well.

Thus the second orchestra, though hidden from view and more distant than heretofore, will be able to keep exact time with the musicians on the stage. By certain premeditated signals and movements they will know what directions will be meant for them and which will be directed to the main orchestra, and they will then be better able to produce the right effects to make the entire symphony a success.

It's Wonderful! —this new APEX RADIO

That's what everybody says who hears it—and you'll say the same thing because for perfect selectivity and performance in general, we doubt if there is a receiver comparable even at much higher prices.

In the first place, the new APEX RADIO is ALL-ELECTRIC—simply plug in the wall socket—the single making knob and perfect reception follows. No self-contained battery—no complicated parts. There are six tubes plus one rectifier. When you come to the

there is never any unusual sound there to distort reception—just a steady flow of mid-low tones that are exceptionally natural.

The reason of the APEX ALL-ELECTRIC NEUTRODYNE is that it is designed to receive the strong signals in the air without distortion. It is designed to receive the strong signals in the air without distortion. It is designed to receive the strong signals in the air without distortion.

THEY LIKE MAJESTIC

Steady Disked Pickering, Elmer Rennie and Dean Loom, members of the vocal ensemble at KHJ, which will be a feature of the Majestic hour tonight, are enthusiastic about the quality of the new Majestic receiver and are here shown operating the Majestic High Boy console installed in the KHJ studios.

SANTA ANA HAS GOOD DX RECORD

A. W. Lindgren, 722 Eastwood street, Santa Ana, has brought in the Siberian station RPN, KOU, Hawaii; SCL, Australia; JOAK, JOEK, JOCK, GODK and JOKE, Japan, in the last two weeks on a Federal 7-tube set, purchased from the Howard Radio company. He is a member of the Federal DX club.

Mrs. Naomi Schoenrock, 918 North Olive street, Santa Ana, using a Federal six-tube set, has brought JOAK, JOEK, JOCK and JOKE, Japan, 3YA, New Zealand; KERM, Philippine Islands, and CNYV and CFCN, Canada.

Lindgren's report is considered one of the best submitted by Santa Ana DX'ers this season.

Special Service Now Offered By Foster, Barker

"Three minute service" is the unusual inducement to prospective purchasers that is being offered by the Foster-Barker Music company, Santa Ana, Spanton radio dealers.

This unusual guarantee against interrupted reception, something new in radio, is made possible by the entirely different construction of Spanton's new Equasone circuit.

Three separate and distinct units are found in the new Spanton. Any one can be removed and a new unit substituted. Service men for Spanton radio now carry spare units, and in case of difficulty can give the owner of the set a "loaner" that serves him until his own is working properly.

Dealers Announce Program To Be Broadcast From KHJ Tonight

Majestic radio dealers in Southern California and Arizona will present through the medium of radio station KHJ, Los Angeles, their weekly Majestic hour of diversified music tonight from 8 to 9 p.m. As is customary with Majestic programs the dealers have made arrangements for music selections that will demonstrate the tonal range of the new famous Majestic dynamic power speaker which is self-contained in all Majestic models.

This program originating in the studios of KHJ will be rebroadcast on their own wave lengths by stations, KNX, KPLA, KMTR, KFON, KNRC, KFQZ, KWTC, KMIC and KFWC, which will make possible practically a complete Southern California hookup on this occasion.

Musical numbers selected for this occasion will include 1. us this program by Arthur Kay, director of the KHJ concert orchestra, are as follows:

Selections from "Blossom Time" (voices) by Remberg.
"Poupees Valsante," doll dance, for flute, cello and harp (Poulini).

They STEAL Majestic Radio in Chicago!

Only the tremendous popularity of Majestic All Electric Radio Receivers would make it possible for the thieves to readily dispose of their plunder. Only the knowledge that these popular radio sets can be quickly sold in any part of the country to people who do not suspect that they have been stolen would cause the "under cover" concern to buy them from bandits that held up the Harry Alter Company's driver. Truly, popularity earns some strange rewards.

If you have not already seen the beautiful Majestic All Electric Radio receivers . . . heard the wonderful tone of the now famous Majestic Dynamic Power Speaker with which they are equipped . . . been told the almost unbelievable low price at which they are being sold, you have a pleasant surprise awaiting you. When you do decide to hear Majestic, be sure that you call on an authorized Majestic dealer.

BANDITS in eastern cities have long waged war on merchants dealing in silks, furs, jewelry and other merchandise with a readily salable value that cannot be too easily identified, but the incident described in the telegram reproduced here marks the first time that radio receivers have ever become so popular as to attract the attention of gangsters.

Now that the radio has been stolen the procedure of the thieves is easy to determine. Their first act, of course, will be to remove or obliterate the factory serial numbers on the Majestic receivers, the only means of identifying them. This is easily accomplished by removing the plate that carries the serial number. Then the radio will be offered for sale to some "not too particular" concern that may dispose of it in Chicago or ship it elsewhere.

WARNING!

Owing to the possibility of stolen Majestic receivers being shipped to Southern California we urge that radio enthusiasts interested in Majestic receivers deal only through an authorized dealer who will be glad to show the manufacturer's serial number on every set in his establishment.

It is against the California law to mutilate or remove factory serial numbers from radio receivers or to have in one's possession radio sets from which serial numbers have been removed. Authorized Majestic dealers will gladly prove to you that the receivers they show you come through legitimate channels. Be safe. Insist that the Majestic you buy comes from an unquestionable source.

Bears In Secret Drill For Trojans

NORTH FEARFUL OF ATTACK BY DON WILLIAMS

BERKELEY, Oct. 18.—Secret practice continued at the University of California today as the Bears entered the final lap of preparation for their crucial game with University of Southern California Trojans here Saturday.

An old military axiom, the gist of which is to keep the enemy guessing, is guiding "Nibs" Price in his movements during the week and the result is a crop of rumors and reports of every description.

Out of this maize of conjecture has come one definite conclusion and that is that Price is preparing a surprise for the Trojans. Generally it is believed that this surprise will be an entirely new backfield combination.

The Bears have bared their fangs and shown an airtight defense whenever their goal line has been crossed this season, but their attack has been a disappointment. Price has been as badly disappointed as anyone else and there is little doubt that the California mentor has bent every effort this week toward improving that attack.

But, despite California's efforts toward building up more power of assault, the Trojans ruled favorites here today. The Trojan scoring machine, built up around Don Williams, has created a mighty respect for it and no one expects to see the game end without a brace or more of touchdowns on the Southern side of the scoreboard. And few are optimistic enough to believe the Bears can score more or as many.

Orange Will Honor Two Sport Aces

ORANGE, Oct. 18.—Orange high school, which has to its credit two winners of Olympic events—James Workman and Fred Kelly—will honor these athletes at an assembly at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the high school auditorium.

Workman returned a few days ago from the Olympic Games at Amsterdam where he was one of the University of California crew that rowed to the world's championship in an eight-oar shell event. Kelly won the high hurdle championship at Stockholm in 1912—while a student at the University of Southern California.

Kelly is at the present engaged in the air mail service and has signified his intention to be present at the assembly to extend his congratulations to Workman. Kelly flies between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

REAL PHOTOGRAPHIC SCOOP

Gene Tunney and his bride dodged hundreds of photographers after their wedding in Rome but the bashful newlyweds couldn't fool 'em all. Here's one of the few pictures taken in the gardens of the Hotel Rucellai where the marriage took place.

Vandals In 'Frisco To Play Cards

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Facing their first major engagement of the season, with Stanford university tomorrow afternoon, the University of Idaho Vandals arrived here today. The Idaho eleven will meet the Cardinals in Kassar stadium, and it will be the first appearance of the Stanford squad in San Francisco in a decade.

Charlie Erb, Idaho coach, is bringing a heavy team to San Francisco for the Stanford game but conference opinion, based largely on practice game showings, makes them the underdog in tomorrow's fray.

BREA-OLINDANS MAY GIVE H. B. TEAM TROUBLE

Certainly of the trio of undefeated teams, Coach Harry Shue's Huntington Beach band has the most dangerous opposition in Brea-Olinda which lost to Orange, 12 to 7, but won from Excelsior last Friday. Fullerton goes to Garden Grove for what should be a comparatively easy task while Stewart White's Orangemen don't even play at all, drawing a bye in the day's schedule.

"Big Bill" Cole's Tustin Farmers will open their conference season at Downey, which hasn't shown anything but fight in its first two starts, takes on a new lease on life. The disappointing Anaheim Colonists, who made a miserable showing against the Fullerton Indians last week, travel to Excelsior for a probable licking unless they correct the many faults they showed in the Fullerton debacle.

Huntington Beach has an impressive season's record so far and should beat Brea-Olinda, too, unless the Shue men are suffering from a superiority complex. Coach Smith always sends a scrappy ball club out on the grid and the Brea-Olindans will make the "uncrowned champions" work for their victory.

JUST LIKE BROTHER
John C. French, whose brother, Walter, gained All-American fame a few years ago at West Point, is regarded as one of the best quarterback prospects at Penn State this fall.

MORIARTY OUT AS LEADER OF DETROIT CLUB

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 18.—A new manager for the Detroit Tigers was sought today by President Frank Navin.

George Moriarty, former American league umpire, and for the past two years director of the Tigers on the playing field, forwarded his resignation yesterday.

"Unfavorable circumstances," Moriarty wrote, "played a part in the showing of the team this past season. My contract with the team, from the sand lots up, has taught me to accept the reverses of baseball with the same spirit that accompanies success."

Detroit finished sixth this season and fourth in 1932. The Tigers were fifth under Ty Cobb's last year as manager in 1928.

Navin has conferred with "Bucky" Harris, recently deposed manager of the Washington Senators and Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was understood that Bush and Navin had failed to reach an agreement on salary.

Harry Heilmann was a third name mentioned for the post, although it might be that he will be traded to Washington.

Among those Cook has been trying to get into the position and undoubtedly will be conference season with a victory, in the starting lineup. This large Santa Ana junior college football team into shape for the coming game with Pasadena and every afternoon the Dons are on the field working tirelessly under his eagle eye. Under Cook's tutelage the men are running through both old and new plays and improving steadily.

COOK HOPES TO OPEN LEAGUE SEASON WITH WIN SATURDAY

In an attempt to usher in the position and undoubtedly will be conference season with a victory, in the starting lineup. This large Santa Ana junior college football team into shape for the coming game with Pasadena and every afternoon the Dons are on the field working tirelessly under his eagle eye. Under Cook's tutelage the men are running through both old and new plays and improving steadily.

"Reg" Rust, triple threat half-back, was in uniform again yesterday and got into scrimmage. The big blond is going pretty well now and if he can manage to hang on to the ball Saturday, there is no doubt that he will pile up yardage for the Dons. "Venus" Harvey has made good at the fullback

OLIVER SHIFTS 'RED' COOKE. FLASHY END, INTO BACKFIELD AS NEED BECOMES DESPERATE

By GRIDER
Desperately in need of backfield men who can do two things well instead of one, namely run interference and carry the ball, Coach "Tex" Oliver today was going to resort to the most radical thing he has done since he came to coach the Santa Ana high school team three years ago. Oliver was going to break up his veteran line and move "Red" Cooke, who is beginning his third season at left end, into a backfield position.

ANAHEIM BOUT CLUB REOPENS FRIDAY NIGHT

Under a reorganized board of directors, the Anaheim Amateur Athletic association will reopen its boxing arena in the Concordia club building, 1514 West Broadway, with a double main event and four other bouts tomorrow night.

Carl Simmons, well known Anaheim sportsman, will act as manager and Ira Daniel, of the same city, as assistant. Billy Darley, widely known boxing referee and former matchmaker for the club, will serve the board in an advisory capacity.

Wally Fraser, Hawthorne heavyweight, who has been a consistent winner in Orange county rings, will meet Louis Wilson, Vernon colored boxer, in the final main event. Tony Moreno, Placentia banty, faces Ed Foley, Hollywood, in the other windup.

Joe Hawley will fly from Hanover, N. H., to Chicago when his Dartmouth eleven plays Northwestern in late November.

ARMY-HARVARD
TILT SATURDAY
FEATURES CARD

BY FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Army's football squad, probably the best in the east, goes over to Cambridge, Mass., today, for a final workout in preparation for Saturday's game against Harvard.

It is strange to find the Crimson, after so many seasons of disappointment, figuring as a participant in the major gridiron engagement of any given week, yet much in the case.

Harvard presents a real test of West Point's strength, and on the showing of the Cadets the day after tomorrow depends their chances of recognition as one of the year's leading eleven.

The Army has not met Harvard at football for 18 years. The Cadets have high hopes of wiping out the memories of successive defeat dating back to 1910. In all the years that West Point and Harvard met on the gridiron the Cadets won not a single game.

This year, things are different. Head Coach "Biff" Jones has one of the strongest of modern Army teams moving on Cambridge today.

Harvard has improved over the past two seasons, but still lacks the power and football brains of the Cadets.

Since their break with the Navy, football authorities at West Point have been at pains to develop the best possible team, in order that the disparagement between the gridiron strength of the service academies might be accepted generally as the real reason for the severance of athletic relations.

Harvard and the Army were regular football rivals from 1885 to 1910, but in that period the Crimson always was victorious.

Jones is taking to Cambridge a strong and veteran team, except for the ends, and a backfield which includes Cagle, Murrell, Hutchinson and Nave. Harvard has shown versatility and power this season, but an Army victory is anticipated.

The Crimson has not been scored on this season, a situation which most likely may be remedied on Saturday. Coach Arnold Howsen, after two disappointing seasons, has a worthwhile team at Cambridge, however, and anything resembling a stand-off will go down on the records as a "moral victory" for Harvard.

cision although it could have been called a draw.

Young Joe Rivers, from the Colima stable, was awarded a decision over Hymie Rudin. Both boys were dog-tired at the end of the affair going four rounds.

Jimmie Rivers, said to be the coast's amateur welterweight wrestling champion, and Johnny Hill, a challenger, each scored a fall in a 30-minute grappling contest. Hill got the first one with a toe hold in 12 minutes, Rivers evening matters seven minutes later with a headlock.

Abe Miller, clever young brother of Hymie Miller, gave Tim Lagada, a Filipino, a three-round boxing lesson.

Norman Lemon, Santa Ana, had Young Griffo nearly out in the first but fought himself into nothing and Griffo, a rugged customer, put him out with three cruel blows to the middle. They stopped it with Lemon unable to defend himself.

Battling Max stopped Young Lanche in the second, the latter absorbing some terrible punishment. Paul Garcia quit to Ned Herman in the second. Ned Herman finished Paul Garcia with a flurry of second round punches.

The card reeked with substitutions but everyone seemed satisfied.

Jack Gilbert, not the movie actor but the rapid world's amateur featherweight champion, will headline the Orange County A.A.O. card next Wednesday night, it was announced. Gilbert will oppose Richie Thomas. Wally Fraser and Jack Blair, light heavies, also will have a prominent place on the program.

Yankees, we find the pitching of the New York staff vying with the better to the honor of dominating the series.

A glance at the statistics reveals the amazing information that in four games 10 members of the St. Louis Cardinals were on down on strikes, an average of better than seven per game. To make the work of the Yankee pitchers stand out all the more, it might be well to stress the fact that in retiring 39 St. Louis players on strikes, the pitchers alone accounted for a little more than one game in the matter of strikeouts.

AND THOSE WHIFFS!

Jim Bottomley is regarded as one of the best hitters in the game, yet the Yankee pitchers stopped Bottomley to a whisper. Bottomley struck out six times during the series and made only three hits. In the second game, Phipps fanned "Sunny Jim" three times. Phipps used an over-hand curve that he kept inside and broke low, around Bottomley's knees. Against this style of pitching, Bottomley seemed helpless. In the final game, Hoyt worked on Bottomley in the same manner. The only home run made by the Cardinals came from the bat of Bottomley.

As said before, pitching invariably dominates every world series. However, in 1928, power of batting, for the first time, is entitled to the edge, if not the edge at least a 50-50 break, on the hero role stuff.

The argument for the stove league for the winter resolves itself into the question: was the batting of Ruth and Gehrig greater than the pitching of Hoyt, Phipps and Bottomley? Take your choice.

Paolino To Meet

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Paolino Usoudun, Basque heavyweight, will make his first appearance in this country since his return from Europe in a 10-round bout with Big Boy Peterson, the 200-pound New Orleans fighter, at Ebbets field, tonight. Peterson is substituting for Roberto Roberti who was forced to withdraw because of injuries. Paolino rules a 2 to 1 favorite.

Jockeys Charged

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Laverne Fator, Tony Pascua, Frank Colletti and Frank Catrone, all jockeys, were called before the Jockey club last night on charges of violating the rule for jockeys concerning betting. No action was taken but each jockey was warned to observe the regulation.

ENDURING AS LAKE CHELAN

Prove CYCOL yourself—you'll find it has "endurance beyond belief"

Stability The new Cycol will stand the hardest kind of usage. It is refined to meet the severest conditions of heat and pressure developed by the modern high compression engines, assuring you an unbroken oil film where heat, pressure and friction are greatest.

No Acids The new Cycol refining process eliminates the use of acids, though most refineries use them. While acids clear the "crude oil" they chemically change its structure and composition, thus seriously cutting its lubricating value.

Such oils break down under engine temperatures. They distill off and escape as vapor through the breathers or exhaust.

The new refining process of Cycol selects from the "crude" those elements of greatest lubricating value and discards the elements which readily break down under engine heat and cause excessive carbon deposits.

So Cycol gives a protective oil film on cylinder walls and moving parts, not vapor at the breather pipe.

Less Carbon As to carbon, Cycol like all oils deposits some carbon. But it deposits less carbon than any other oil. The most exhaustive tests have proven that statement.

Even more important, the carbon that is deposited by Cycol is soft and easily removable. It is not hard or sticky and cannot scratch a cylinder.

Prove it yourself Cycol gives you the finest results you have ever known—more perfect lubrication, "endurance beyond belief" and the elimination of carbon troubles.

So fill your crank case with Cycol. You can identify it by the new transparent green-gold color. Sold wherever the Associated Gasoline and Cycol Motor Oil signs are shown. ASSOCIATED OIL COMPANY, Refiners of Tomorrow there will be only signal running. It is doubtful if Cook will risk his men in any further scrimmage before the game. He will announce the starting lineup tomorrow and generally give the boys some advice about meeting the Pasadena eleven's offense.

The outcome of the game is far from certain and as Coach Cook remarked: "We're going into this game a more or less crippled team and if we expect to win we will have to start scamping right at the start and actually fight the Pasadena team off its feet. The boys are all anxious to win, and with that spirit, I think that we have an even chance."

Below is a record of all games played this season by most of the teams affiliated with the Southern California Junior College conference and it would appear that Coach Art Nunn's Fullerton squad is the strongest although Santa Ana, Pasadena and Compton have been getting the bulk of the publicity. ## Court Notes

Rush P. Green today brought action for divorce against Blanche G. Green. He charged her with desertion. The couple married in 1912 and separated in 1927, the complaint said.

A jury today awarded Fernando Foraker $8451 damages at the conclusion of a lawsuit in which Donald Foraker was defendant. Foraker charged that Foraker was responsible for an automobile accident near San Clemente, last August, in which the plaintiff was injured.

Clara E. Lee today had brought divorce action against R. C. Lee, charging that he remained out every night, until 11 p. m., or 3 a. m. Mrs. Lee declared that her husband went out with other women.

VETS REALIZE
GOODY SUM ON BOXING SHOW

Although the net proceeds of the boxing show staged last night by Henry Foust, in his Delhi arena, as a benefit for the Santa Ana American Legion post, had not been determined today, it was deemed practically certain that the post would receive several hundred dollars, according to Franklin G. West, commander.

The post's appreciation was expressed today by West, who said: "The American Legion has become a tremendous influence in the community and has attained the position where it is deeply interested in every phase of community life. Naturally, an organization so active and so ambitious to do its part in community service must have funds with which to operate."

The generosity of Henry T. Foust and Major Anderson, president and manager, respectively, of the Orange County Athletic club, in turning over to the Santa Ana post the proceeds of last night's boxing exhibition, has been a great assistance to us in outlining our year's work, as it has enabled the post to realize the funds so badly needed. On behalf of the Santa Ana post, I wish to publicly express my appreciation," West said.

Police News

A. C. Brown and W. L. Dobyns, Santa Ana, each were fined $3 in police court yesterday on charges of overtime parking.

Charged with ignoring a boulevard stop sign, Rollin Blank, Santa Ana, was given a $5 fine in the city court yesterday.

Henry A. Kunston, Costa Mesa, pleaded guilty to speeding in police court yesterday afternoon and was given a $15 fine.

Zeno Sheeley, Santa Ana, was fined $3 by Judge J. F. Talbot in police court yesterday on a charge of allowing the motor of his machine to run unattended in violation of a city ordinance.

Joy riders who stole the machine of L. V. Phillips, Orange, from a place where it was parked in front of 605 East Washington avenue, early last night, returned it at 10:30 p. m. in the meantime Phillips notified police of the theft.

Lloyd Zukerman, 40, was released from the Santa Ana police court yesterday afternoon on making bail of $25 for his appearance in court at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace in the Grand Central market.

'STRANGLER' SCORES
WIN OVER PLESTINA

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Ed ("Strangler") Lewis today continues to reign as king of the world's heavyweight wrestlers, following his victory here last night over Marin Plestina, Chicago giant.

More than 10,000 spectators witnessed the title bout. Most of them made little effort to conceal their distaste for the champion's tactics in keeping to the ropes as much as possible and avoiding an out and out test of strength.

Perhaps, it was better for Lewis that he was cautious for Plestina's strength is formidable. In fact, Plestina relies on sheer beef to overcome his opponent. Lewis took the first fall with a headlock after 41 minutes and 30 seconds of wrangling. Plestina garnered the second fall with a flying mare hold in 12 minutes and 45 seconds. The fall nearly knocked the titleholder unconscious, but he came back and within three minutes took the third and deciding fall with a backward body slam.

Stanford's football squad of 49 men average 180 pounds to the man, the total weight being 8803 pounds this year.

Wiggins was almost out in the third round from a series of wicked rights and lefts from Von Porat when he struck the Norwegian low and was disqualified. Most of the ring-side fans thought Wiggins fouled Von Porat deliberately to save himself from a knockout.

The Greene Murder Case

By S. S. Van Dine

"He wasn't worrying as much over Ada as he was over Sibella," remarked Heath.

"Observing tell!" smiled Vance. "No, Sargeant; Ada's demise apparently bothered him far less than Sibella's possible state of health. . . . Now, I wonder what that means. It's an inviolable point. But—dash it all—it everts my pet theory."

"So you have a theory," Markham spoke rebukingly.

"Oh, any number of 'em. And, I might add, they're all pets." Vance's lightness of tone meant merely that he was not ready to outline his suspicions; and Markham did not push the matter.

"We won't need any theories," declared Heath, "after we've heard what Ada's got to tell us. As soon as she talks to us tomorrow we'll be able to figure out who poisoned her."

"Perhaps," murmured Vance. Drumm returned alone a few minutes later.

"Doctor Von Blon has stepped in to the other girl's room. Said he'd be down right away."

"What did he have to say about your patient?" asked Vance.

"Nothing much. She put new energy into her walking the minute she saw him, though. Smiled at him, too, by Jove! A good sign that. She'll come through fast. Lot of resistance in her."

Drumm had hardly ceased speaking when we heard Sibella's door close and the sound of descending footsteps on the stairs.

"By the by, doctor," said Vance to Von Blon as the latter re-entered the drawing room, "have you seen Oppenheimer yet?"

"I saw him at eleven. The fact is, I went direct to him after leaving here this morning. He has agreed to make an examination tomorrow at 10 o'clock."

"And was Mrs. Greene agreeable?"

"Oh, yes. I spoke to her about it this morning; and she made no objection whatever."

A short while later we took our departure. Von Blon accompanied us to the gate, and we saw him drive off in his car.

"We'll know more by this time tomorrow, I hope," said Markham on the way downtown. He was unwontedly depressed, and his eyes were greatly troubled. "You know, Vance, I'm almost appalled by the thought of what Oppenheimer's report may be."

No report was ever made by Doctor Oppenheimer, however. At some time between one and two the next morning Mrs. Greene died in convulsions as a result of strychnine-poisoning.

CHAPTER 31.
(Friday, December 3: Forenoon)

Markham brought us the news of Mrs. Greene's death before 10 o'clock the next morning. The tragedy had not been discovered until 9, when the nurse brought up her patient's morning tea. Heath had notified Markham, and Markham had stopped on his way to the

Greene mansion to apprise Vance of the new development. Vance and I had already breakfasted, and we accompanied him to the house. "This knocks out our only prop," Markham said despondently, as we sped up Madison avenue. "The possibility that the old lady was guilty was frightful to contemplate; though all along I've been trying to console myself with the thought that she was insane. Now, however, I almost wish our suspicions had proved true, for the possibilities that are left seem even more terrible. We're dealing now with a cold-blooded calculating rationality."

Vance nodded.

"Yes, we're confronted with something far worse than mania. I can't say, though, that I'm deeply shocked by Mrs. Greene's death. She was a detestable woman, Markham—a most detestable woman. The world will not bemoan her loss."

Vance's comment expressed exactly the sentiment I had felt when Markham informed us of Mrs. Greene's death. The news had of course shaken me, but I had no pity for the victim. She had been vicious and unnatural; she had thrived on hatred, and had made life a hell for every one about her. It was better that her existence was over.

Both Heath and Drumm were waiting for us in the drawing room. Excitement and depression were mingled in the Sergeant's countenance, and the desperation of despair shone in his chin-blue eyes.

Drumm revealed only a look of chief concern and amazement; he had been deprived of an opportunity to display his medical skill.

Heath, after shaking hands absently, briefly explained the situation.

"O'Brien found the old dame dead at 9 this morning, and told Sproot to ring up to Doc Drumm. Then she phoned the Bureau, and I notified you and Doc Drumm. I got here fifteen or twenty minutes ago, and locked up the room."

"Did you inform Von Blon?" Markham asked.

"I phoned him to call off the examination he'd arranged for 10 o'clock. Said I'd communicate with him later, and hung up before he had time to ask any questions."

Markham indicated his approval and turned toward Drumm.

"Give us your story, doctor."

Drumm drew himself up, cleared his throat, and assumed an attitude calculated to be impressive.

"I was down stairs in the Narcosis dining room eating breakfast when Hennessey came in and told me the curtains had gone down in the reception room here. So I snatched my outfit and came over on the run."

"The butler took me to the old lady's room, where the nurse was waiting. But right away I saw I was too late to be of any good. She was dead—contorted, blue, and cold—and rigor mortis had set in. Died of a big dose of strychnine. Probably didn't suffer much—exhaustion and come inside of half an hour. I'd say. Too old, you understand, to throw it off. Old people succumb to strychnine pretty swiftly."

"What about her ability to cry out and give the alarm?"

"You can't tell. The spasm may have rendered her mute. Anyway, no one heard her. Probably passed into unconsciousness after the first seizure. My experience with such cases has taught me—"

"What time would you say the strychnine was taken?"

"Well, now, you can't tell exactly," Drumm became oracular. "The convulsions may have been prolonged before death supervened, or death may have supervened very shortly after the poison was swallowed."

"At what hour, then, would you fix the time of death?"

"There again you can't say definitely. Confusion between rigor mortis and the phenomenon of cadaveric spasm is a pitfall into which many doctors fall. There are, however, distinct points of dissimilarity—"

"No doubt," Markham was growing impatient with Drumm's sophomoric pedantries. "But leaving all explanation to one side, what time do you think Mrs. Greene died?"

Drumm pondered the point.

"Roughly, let us say, at two this morning."

"And the strychnine might have been taken as early as eleven or twelve?"

"It's possible."

"Anyhow, we'll know about it when Doc Drumm gets here," asserted Heath with brutal frankness.

He was in vicious mood that morning.

"Did you find any glass or cup by which the drug might have been administered, doctor?" Markham hastened to ask, by way of covering up Heath's remark.

"There was a glass near the bed with what appeared to be sulphate crystals adhering to the sides of it."

"But wouldn't a fatal dose of strychnine make an ordinary drink noticeably bitter?" Vance had suddenly become alert.

"Undoubtedly. But there was a bottle of citrocarbonate—a well-known antidote—on the night table; and if the drug had been taken with this, the taste would not have been detected. Citrocarbonate is slightly saline and highly effervescent."

"Could Mrs. Greene have taken the citrocarbonate alone?"

"It's not likely. It has to be carefully mixed with water, and the operation would be highly awkward for any one in bed."

"Now, that's most interesting," Vance listlessly lighted a cigarette.

"We may presume, therefore, that the person who gave Mrs. Greene the citrocarbonate also administered the strychnine?"

Markham. "I think Miss O'Brien might be able to help us."

Heath went at once and summoned the nurse.

But her evidence was unilluminating. She had left Mrs. Greene reading about 11 o'clock, had gone to her own room to make her toilet for the night, and had returned to Ada's room half an hour later, where she had slept all night, according to Heath's instructions.

She had risen at 8, dressed, and gone to the kitchen to fetch Mrs. Greene's tea. As far as she knew, Mrs. Greene had drunk nothing before retiring—certainly she had taken no citrocarbonate up to 11 o'clock. Furthermore, Mrs. Greene never attempted to take it alone.

"You think, then," asked Vance, "that it was given to her by some one else?"

"You can bank on it," the nurse assured him bluntly. "If she'd wanted it, she'd have raised the house before mixing it herself."

"It's quite obvious," Vance observed to Markham, "that some one entered the room after 11 o'clock and prepared the citrocarbonate."

Markham got up and walked anxiously about the room.

"Our immediate problem boils down to finding out who had the opportunity to do it," he said.

"You, Miss O'Brien, may return to your room . . ." Then he went to the bell cord and rang for Sproot.

During a brief interrogation of the butler the following facts were brought out:

The house had been locked up, and Sproot had retired, at about half past 10.

Sibella had gone to her room immediately after dinner, and had remained there.

Hemming and the cook had lingered in the kitchen until shortly after 11, at which time Sproot had heard them ascend to their rooms.

The first intimation Sproot had of Mrs. Greene's death was when the nurse sent him to draw the reception room shades at 9 that morning.

Markham dismissed him and sent for the cook. She was, it appeared, unaware of Mrs. Greene's death and of Ada's poisoning as well; and what evidence she had to give was of no importance. She had, she said, been in the kitchen or in her own room practically all of the preceding day.

Hemming was interviewed next. From the nature of the questions put to her she became suspicious almost at once. Her piercing eyes narrowed, and she gave us a look of shrewd triumph.

"You can't thoodwink me," she burst out. "The Lord's been busy with his beam again. And a good thing, too! The Lord preserveth all them that love Him; but all the wicked shall He destroy!"

"Will," corrected Vance. "And seeing that you have been so tenderly preserved, perhaps we had better inform you that both Miss Ada and Mrs. Greene have been poisoned."

He was watching the woman closely, but it took no scrutiny to see her cheeks go pale and her jaw sag.

"I'm going to leave this house," she declared faintly. "I've seen enough."

"An excellent idea," nodded Vance. "And the sooner you go the more time you'll have to give apocryphal testimony."

Hemming rose, a bit dazed, and started for the archway. Then she quickly turned back and glared at Markham maliciously.

"But let me tell you something before I pass from this den of iniquity. That Miss Sibella is the worst of the lot. There's no use to try and save her. She's doomed!"

Vance lifted his eyebrows languidly.

"I say, Hemming, what unrighteousness has Miss Sibella been up to now?"

"The usual thing," the woman spoke with relish. "She's nothing but a hussy, if you ask me. Her carrying-on with this Dr. Von Blon have been scandalous. They're together, as thick as thieves, at all hours." She nodded her head significantly.

These actual figures prove that Exchange Members get Higher Citrus Returns

for box comparisons which the Exchange is always glad to make, reflect the efficiency of this grower's marketing organization.

Why Exchange Members
Get Higher Returns

The reasons for these price differences are not hard to find:

1 The Exchange has a reputation with the trade, of 35 years' standing, for dependable grades, good pack and a square deal.

2 Sunkist advertising has created a tremendous consumer demand for Exchange fruit which is directly reflected in the price returned to the grower.

3 The Exchange has more complete market information than any other organization.

4 The Exchange maintains an aggressive sales organization.

5 Because 75 per cent of the California citrus crop is marketed by the Exchange, it is able to regulate the supply reaching the market and to take instant advantage of every situation for the benefit of its members.

Finally, Exchange members get still further benefits because the cost of all Exchange services (including advertising, traffic adjustments, dealer service, etc.) is less than the marketing cost alone of any other organization.

What the Exchange is

The California Fruit Growers Exchange is a non-profit corporation of 11,000 California citrus fruit growers, organized in 1912. It is the largest and most efficient marketing organization in the world, and its members are the growers of the California orange, lemon and grapefruit crops.

A marketing organization that will sell the fruit of its members most advantageously and at least expense. It operates a vast system of sales and distribution, and its members are the growers of the California orange, lemon and grapefruit crops.

CLEANING MACHINE

on the motor, oil lines and crankcase of your car will not only increase the efficiency of your motor oil but will actually make your car run better!

The Pan-Am Motor Cleaning Machine not only completely washes out all the mud, grit and metal filings that constantly accumulate in your motor... it also loosens and removes the carbon from under the piston heads... carbon that otherwise drops into the crankcase and is carried into the oiling system, clogging the oil lines and causing expensive trouble.

Pan-Am Motor Cleaning Machine Service is available to users of Pan-Am Motor Oil... the oil that does not form hard gritty carbon in the combustion chambers... the oil that forms "the perfect seal" between cylinder walls and piston rings! This service is FREE... you pay only for the cleaning lubricant used (which is 100% lubricating oil and not a "cutting agent").

Make it a habit to take advantage of this free service once a month, when you change oil. If your dealer is not equipped to give the Pan-Am Motor Cleaning Machine service, any Pan American service station will gladly direct you to the nearest dealers who are!

GIVES REASONS WHY CITY MUST JOIN DISTRICT

In stressing the point today that Santa Ana must join the metropolitan water district in order to avail itself of the privilege of using Colorado river water if it is brought into the Southland, City Manager W. G. Knox said that if Colorado river water was flowing through an aqueduct passing through or near Santa Ana, this city could not obtain water if it were not identified with the district.

"Santa Ana will have, on November 6, at the general election, a chance to join in the formation of such a district under the state legislature enabling bill," Knox said. "This is the most important opportunity the city has ever had to secure an adequate and permanent water supply."

"Incorporation under metropolitan water district is the first step which the Southern California metropolitan district is taking to insure its share in the Colorado river water when that water is available. This act sets up the machinery by which individual communities in the district are given the opportunity in sharing, not only in the water, but in the management of the district as a whole. Each community in the proposed district has at least one vote in the management of the organization. The vote is apportioned to the assessed valuation in the district with the proviso that no single community may have more than half of this dominance and thereby control the whole district."

In explaining the act Knox went on to say that the water district measure sets up in much detail the exact rights of the district in regard to the production of an adequate water supply for this section and no community can participate in the benefits without becoming a member of the district by a vote of the people at the polls. In order to ratify membership in the district a majority vote alone is required.

In addition to the initial communities which are participating in the formation of the district, other sections of the metropolitan area may become united to the district at a later date by a majority vote of their citizens, but only with the consent of those already in the district," the manager commented. "For this reason there is a considerable advantage in becoming what may be called a charter member and having full voice in the management of its affairs from the start."

CLUB TO MEET

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—Members of the Newport Beach Civic league will gather at the clubhouse at 18 East Central avenue, Balboa, next Tuesday for the second meeting of the season, it was reported today. Mrs. Ray G. Burlingame will be acting chairman of the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. C. W. Brooks, who is visiting in Salt Lake City. The meeting will be a business affair.

"FLYING? PRETTY TAME!"

Airplane riding isn't nearly as thrilling and dangerous as shooting Ontario river rapids in a birch bark canoe, says James Dandy, Chesham, Wn., contentarian, who celebrated his 100th birthday by taking his first air trip. ### HERBERT HOOVER'S SISTER IS VISITOR IN CITY WEDNESDAY TO SECURE PERMANENT WAVE

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

Just at present, when interest of every American centers in the approaching election and the presidential candidates, California's own Herbert Hoover, and New York's Alfred Smith, members of the Hoover or Smith families, have assumed a special importance. So the fact that Santa Ana yesterday entertained Herbert Hoover's sister, May, otherwise Mrs. Van Ness Leavitt, of Santa Monica, for an all-too-brief visit, is an event of more than passing interest.

It developed that Mrs. Leavitt's visit to Santa Ana while she was perched in a big chair with the most unholly looking contrivances imaginable dotted at regular intervals all over her head. It wasn't the easiest situation in the world for her. But her native courtesy and sweetness were uppermost, and as she submitted herself to the capable hands of Mrs. Frances Norfield in her little beauty salon at 908 South Cypress street, she talked freely of her hopes and aspirations for her distinguished brother.

"Please don't be too hard on me," she begged smilingly. "You have no idea what the newspaper writers have done to me since my brother was nominated for the presidency! I have found myself misquoted, praised, criticized—treated with consideration and treated with no consideration whatever, until finally I have attempted to forget all about the public and live just as quietly as we have been accustomed to. But I never know quite what to expect."

"There is one thing that I have learned, however. That is that I have more relations than I ever dreamed existed. Cousins and cousins and cousins have sprung up to tell me about their relationship and trace family connections. It is really quite interesting."

Mrs. Ludlow, her hostess, laughed. "Yes," she agreed, "Isn't it?"

So we had our little interview (Continued on Page 17)

WILLARD HIGH STUDENTS WILL SECURE BANNER

Frances Willard junior high school will receive the banner offered by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce to the school whose students returned the largest percentage of home inspection blanks issued during fire prevention week. It was announced today by John Luxembourger, fire chief, following completion of tabulation of the reports.

Pointing out that the blanks were issued in all the grammar schools October 8 and collected the following Friday, the fire chief said that 2601 blanks were returned to the schools. The percentages by schools were as follows: Frances Willard, 94; Lincoln, 73; Artesia, 70; Jefferson, 58; Lowell, 56; McKinley, 56; Spurgeon, 55; Roosevelt, 53; Grand avenue, 50; Franklin, 49; John Muir, 47; Julia Lathrop, 47.

"Although some of the pupils were at a loss to answer some of the questions, the papers showed much thought and preparation," Luxembourger said.

Special commendation is given the following students for exceptionally well prepared and neat papers: Perry Winchel, Marion Fox, Margaret Krebs, Marian Brownridge, Ruth Ballantine, Helen Dugger, Guy Furlinton, Jeannette Warburton, Allen Kidder, Dorothy Preble.

As information to the public and for the information of children who could not answer, the following questions and answers were offered by Luxembourger as samples of the questions asked the school children:

Question No. 4—How do you turn in a fire alarm?

Answer—By telephone or street box.

If by street box the following operation will complete the alarm: 1—Break glass. 2—Turn key opening the door to box. 3—Pull lever down once and release hold. 4—Wait until the arrival of the fire department to direct same to the building.

If reporting a fire by telephone: tell central to give you the fire department that you wish to report a fire. She will then connect you with the fire department operator. At this point you will talk slowly and clearly saying "I am reporting a fire" or "There is a fire at 717 Elm street," giving the exact location and kind of fire; repeating as many times as the operator requests as the exact location is necessary before dispatching apparatus and men to a fire.

Question 16—Are any gas appliances connected to pipes by rubber tubing? The use of rubber or flexible tubing for gas connections is not permitted in the City of Santa Ana.

Question 19—Is it a violation of the city ordinance to burn rubbish after the hour of 12 o'clock, noon?

Answer: Yes, it is a violation to burn rubbish after 12 o'clock, noon.

"Anyone wishing to have an inspection made of their premises or dwellings, call the fire department and ask for the fire prevention bureau and an inspector will make a thorough inspection, recommending any corrections or changes necessary for protection against fire," the chief said.

PRINCESS GREET'S CURTIS

While Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice presidential nominee, was in Chicago on his campaign tour, he was visited by Princess Tsianina, Cherokee and Creek Indian, of Muskogee, Okla. The princess is shown shaking Senator Curtis' left hand, his right hand having been injured when a friend slammed an automobile door against it.

GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY WILL HEAR EXPLORER OFFICERS FOR 4 AND 8 GROUP ARE INSTALLED

Nearly 50 Orange county members of the Pacific Geographical society will meet at St. Ann's inn at 6:30 p. m., October 25, to elect officers of the local branch of the organization, it was announced today.

Dr. Frederick Mosen, explorer and historian from Pasadena, will give an illustrated lecture. Dr. George P. Clements, scientist and vice-president of the society, will give a talk. Humphrey Read, editor, geographer, naturalist and managing director of the organization, also is on the program. The election will be the first held by the Orange county members of the organization.

Organized two years ago, the Pacific Geographical society is active in countries bordering the Pacific ocean. Education and scientific research are its prime purposes, through which it hopes to foster a closer relation and better understanding between people in these countries. This would stimulate trade channels and tend to settle disputes, it is believed.

The society will confer a medal on Col. Charles Lindbergh in 1929. Members of the organization in Orange county from Santa Ana are the Rev. William Ashmore, Dr. C. D. Ball, O. H. Barr, Hazel Nelson, Mrs. N. Belsky, R. L. Bishy, C. H. Chapman, Dr. J. I. Clark, C. L. Cotant, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, A. J. Crookshank, C. S. Crookshank, Roland E. Dye, H. J. Forgy, H. A. Gardner, Harry L. Hanson, Will S. Kellogg, Jeanette E. McFadden, H. G. Nelson, J. H. Rankin, Fred Rafferty, Mrs. E. D. White, Lulu M. Minter, Mrs. Victor Montgomery, W. H. Spurgeon, Mrs. Anita Alexander and Mrs. Emma Palmer Mosbaugh.

Members from Laguna Beach are John L. Brickett, Sumner Crosby, Mrs. Thomas A. Cummings, William A. Griffith, Miss Anna A. Hills, Mrs. James A. Irons, Mrs. J. N. Isch, E. E. Jahraus, Joseph R. Jahraus, Mrs. Edward A. Simons, Mrs. H. E. Smith.

Ballroom members are Fred R. Aldrich, Ray G. Burlingame, Dr. Conrad Richter, H. L. Sherman and A. J. Twist.

Other members are J. M. Woodworth, Garden Grove; W. Carl Spencer, Costa Mesa; Mrs. E. M. Grimshaw, Anaheim; S. C. Hartman, Fullerton; William McPherson, Orange.

MASONS HEAR TALK ON TAX MEASURES

J. A. Vandergriff, of Los Angeles, was the speaker of the evening at the regular meeting of the Orange County Masonic club in Anaheim last night. Vandergriff, who is connected with the California Taxpayers' association, spoke on taxes and the tax amendments that are to be voted on at the coming election.

Dr. L. L. Whitson, of Santa Ana, president of the club, was unable to be present and E. H. Metcalf, of Anaheim, past president of the club, presided. A short musical program was given. Nearly 125 were present for the dinner and the meeting.

It was voted to hold the next meeting at Yorba Linda on November 15.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN BY 3 SCHOOL CLUBS

The Boys' federation, Girls' league and Paletto and Brush club of the Santa Ana high school announced today the election of officers for the present term.

Clarence Spear is president of the Boys' federation. Bruce Tarter was chosen vice president; George Berry, secretary; Stanley Hardin, treasurer; Ed Meador, senior representative; Harry Merchant, junior representative; Don Crumley, sophomore representative; and Gene Edwards, sergeant-at-arms.

The Girls' league commissioners are as follows: Parliamentarian, Juanita Wallace; Generator, reporter, Gladys Early; art commissioner, Lucretia Gillins; home economics commissioner, Georgia Croft; commercial representative, Elizabeth Riniker; hostess, Dorothea Bourne.

Virginia Pope has been named president of the Paletto and Brush club. Enid Bowles is vice-president; Helen Shaw is secretary-treasurer and Ellen Sneyley is Generator reporter.

Reuter Estate Is Valued At $32,500

A petition for letters of administration in the estate of Margareta K. Reuter, who died October 1, has been filed showing that her estate was valued at $32,500. The property lies in Santa Ana, chiefly, according to the petition, which was filed by Theodore Reuter, of Santa Ana. Herman Reuter and Ernest A. Reuter, of Santa Ana, and Hedwig Angie, of Brea, were listed as heirs.

CFCA, Toronto, will again run its European rebroadcasts in the near future, officials of the station state. These rebroadcasts were a decided success last spring.

QUICKSILVER IS ONLY VALUABLE METAL MINED

Crude petroleum valued at $56,338,767 came from the ground under Orange county last year according to a report made public today by the state division of mines and mining.

Quicksilver was the only valuable metal mined to any degree. This substance, now worth 80 per cent of its price two years ago, was taken in small quantities. Since the days of '49, mining never has ceased to be a source of wealth to California and its most romantic industry still flourishes after three quarters of a century of activity.

Gold Still Leads

Gold, to which the state owes its first wealth and great population influx, continues to lead other metals in total value. Copper is second.

The largest gold production is reported from Yuba county. The 1927 report, made public in a bulletin today, shows a total of $11,671,018 worth of the metal mined in the entire state.

The copper output dropped materially from 1926. Last year the state's total was $3,582,588 with $2,755,261 coming from Plumas county.

Some platinum was mined in California, but metals in this group are obtained largely as by-products from placer operations for gold. From a total of $22,005 worth mined in 1926, last year's production dropped to $10,757.

Free Silver Found

San Bernardino county is virtually the only one in California in which free silver has been found. Many other counties, however, produce lesser amounts as by-products of copper, lead, zinc and gold ores. The total production for 1927 was valued at $918,977.

Petroleum, not classed strictly as a mining product, was given considerable importance in the report of the Division of Mines and Mining through its output valued at $260,735,491 "at the well." This estimate could not be exact because of the fluctuation of prices and the fact that a large part of the output is not sold until after it is refined.

Quicksilver valued at $714,418 and zinc valued at $552,000 were taken from California soil last year.

Hubbies Deserted On Same Day File Suits For Divorce

On August 15, 1928, two husbands were deserted and both men have launched divorce suits against their wives, in which charges of desertion are made. Each case was filed by the same attorney.

In both families the wife has custody of minor children, the arrangement having been perpetuated by an agreement whereby the husbands will contribute to their support.

William C. Blodgett is the plaintiff in one suit, filed against Hazel C. Blodgett. The couple married in January, 1917, the complaint said. In the other case John B. Gibson has brought suit against Alice L. Gibson. The complaint stated that the couple married in 1918.

Charming Informality Adds Attraction to Bridge Luncheon

Charming Informality Adds Attraction to Bridge Luncheon

In inviting a group of close friends to share luncheon and an afternoon of bridge at Santa Ana Country club, Mrs. Edmund C. D. Pettit so arranged her entertaining as to invest it with an informal charm that was delightful to her guests.

The big assembly room of the clubhouse blazed with autumn colors, for interested friends had showered the choicest blooms of their gardens on the hostess, and the result was a floral background for the card tables, in which all the colors of a California sunset, blended into the deep golden and rust tones of autumn. Mrs. Roland Thompson, Mrs. Cassius Paul, Mrs. E. B. Collier and Mrs. Charles Swanner were among those sending the flowers.

Luncheon tables were arranged in a group of three, at one end of the long room, and each table bore a mound of pompano dahlias whose varied pastel tones blended into a harmonious picture. Place cards were little Japanese figures and scenes, hand-tinted, and later served for marking the scores of the afternoon bridge games.

At the close of the lunch hour, the guests moved to the big fireplace at the opposite end of the room, where eight tables were in readiness for bridge.

In scoring, Mrs. Rowland P. Yeagle was high, and received Mrs. Pettit's first prize, an exquisite vase in Bohemian glass. Mrs. Vincent Rosseter took second honors, and was rewarded with a large candy jar whose delicate green frosted surface was banded with a Dresden design. A tiny hand-etched tray was third prize and was won by Mrs. Frank Koss.

K. P. Dance Plans For Saturday Night

Third in a series of winter dances, will be that to be presented next Saturday night in K. P. hall under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias lodge.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock, with the six-piece orchestra, "The Revellers," furnishing the music. Arrangements for the affair are under the direction of Edward Cochran and R. N. Bullock, who are also working for the success of the big masquerade dance which is to be staged on the night of October 27, as an event of the Halloween season.

The Halloween affair will be the first masquerade dance of the season, and some clever character costumes are anticipated as a result of the committee's plans to award prizes for the best sustained characters.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

She Just Imagines She's An Invalid

"Enjoying poor health" is an indoor sport practiced by a certain type of woman. She is a pest to busy doctors, knows more about symptoms than they do, and manages to take them to her own satisfaction and the discomfort of those who must be around her.

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred she has the constitution of an ox. What's the answer?

Usually one of two things: She has what is called an "exhibition complex" which impels her to draw the spotlight on her "poor health" because she has nothing else sufficiently interesting to offer.

Or, she lacks that vital "IT" and hopes, unconsciously, of course, to draw to herself the attention and pity of some one of the opposite sex who will find in her all the romance and beauty she has always envied in more fortunate women.

Whatever the reason may be, it is a tragedy, both for the person and for those who come in contact with her. Ruthless self-analysis is the only cure and that is as rare as the dodo. Burns put it so well when he said:

"Oh wad some power the giffle gie us, to see ourselves as others see us."

TODAY'S RECIPE

Peanut Salad
1-2 cup blanched peanuts
2 sweet pickles
2 hard-cooked eggs
3 apples

Buy blanched peanuts or do the job at home by pouring hot water over the nuts for five minutes, then plunging them into cold water. Drain and dry, rub the skins off with hands or between a towel.

All three ingredients may be put through the food chopper, using the coarse knife. Mix lightly and bind together with a little tart mayonnaise or with a cooked dressing, for which the recipe is here given.

Peel, core and slice in thin rounds three good, ripe apples. Arrange in overlapping rows on each plate with small spoonful of the peanut mixture piled in the center and out onto each slice of apple.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING

Rub together 1 tablespoon of butter, 1 of sugar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, sprinkle with salt, pepper and celery salt. Beat with an egg, add the juice of a lemon and 2 tablespoons of water. Cook over hot water stirring constantly. When thick and cold thin down with cream. Mix lightly through the peanut mixture.

There are four portions of salad in the quantity given. The calories in each portion amount to $50, half of which are energy-producers. . . all food is productive of energy when eaten in sufficient amounts, even lemon-when I speak of "energy" foods I mean that such foods are concentrated forms of that type.

Take a look at your food cupboard some morning and you will perhaps see a dab of grape jelly, another of apple, some peach marmalade and so on. . . not enough of any one to have them appear at table creditably. How about making a glorified Bread Pudding, using the odds and ends of jelly and stale, toasted bread crumbs?

A stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring you that and a number of other recipes in this week's leaflet, Crumb Recipes.

ANN MEREDITH.

Beginners' French Class Meets For Breakfast

The Beginners' French class at the Santa Ana Junior college met yesterday morning at Ketter's cafe for breakfast. Kieth Trickey, newly elected president of the class, presided over the meeting.

A typical French breakfast of coffee, rolls, and jam was served and no language but French could be spoken at the table.

An entertaining feature of the affair was the introduction of one another given by the breakfasters. Miss Lella Watson of the junior college faculty teaches the class.

Calmon Luboviski, Well Known Violinist, Is To Play Here

One of the greatest violinists in the United States, Calmon Luboviski of Los Angeles, will present the program at Monday afternoon's meeting of the Santa Ana Ebull society which will be held at the clubhouse at 3 o'clock.

Luboviski left the United States when he was still in his teens in order to study under Vecsey, Germany's greatest violinist, who, incidentally, objected to teaching. After hearing Luboviski play, however, Vecsey accepted him as his only pupil. For six years the young man continued his studies under the German master.

After this he appeared in concerts with Straus, Weingartner, Nikisch, Stock, Hertz, Rothwell, Oberholzer, and other famous conductors. He made three appearances with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra as a soloist.

Luboviski's triumphant march to fame was halted by the World War, at the conclusion of which he came to the United States with the avowed intention of forsaking the life of the travelling artist. He arrived in Los Angeles several years ago and has since created a long array of musical activities familiar to his many admirers.

For some time, the violinist has been giving programs over radio station KNX.

He has been brought to Santa Ana through the efforts of Mrs. L. A. Chenoweth, chairman of the program committee, and the members of the committee which includes Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh and Mrs. Robert Nithro.

Mrs. F. E. Coulter, president of the society, will be in the chair and she will introduce the famous artist.

Social and Civic Club Plans Party for Halloween

Plans for a Halloween party were discussed at this week's meeting of the Midway City Social and Civic club which was held at the home of Mrs. Perry Terry of that city. Mrs. Terry and Mrs. John Fleming.

It was announced that the party could not be held unless a room of sufficient size were found in which to hold the festivities. A committee was appointed to search for an appropriate room.

Two interesting papers were read by Mrs. B. L. Kirkham and Mrs. Robert Hazard. Mrs. Kirkham is president of the club.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Those present for the meeting included Mrs. Kirkham, Mrs. Hazard, Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. George Rosegrant, Mrs. Murrell, Mrs. O. B. Byram, Mrs. S. A. Miller and Mrs. J. Beaver.

Will Give Party for Tustin Teachers

Plans have been completed by Mrs. Howard Wassum, president of Tustin P. T. A. for a reception for teachers of Tustin grammar school to be held in the kindergarten room of the grammar school group tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the P. T. A.

Mrs. James Willis Rice, program chairman, has promised something out of the ordinary in entertainment. Mrs. Henry Fankes as chairman of the refreshment committee which also includes Mrs. Hugh Fink and Mrs. Lou Allen, will serve appropriate refreshments in the late evening. All teachers of Tustin grammar school are expected to be present and enjoy the honors to be accorded them.

St. Ann's Altar Society Entertains With Cards

Mrs. Charles Borchard and Mrs. Henry Carey of St. Ann's Altar society, presided over an unusually enjoyable evening of cards last night at St. Ann's hall, where a large crowd gathered to share their hospitality.

Fortune smiled on Mrs. Harpster, for in addition to securing first prize among the women, she also won a big ham. Mrs. U. Engelmann took second prize and Miss Rose Colombini, third, while among the men, first, second and third prizes were awarded Charles South, John Burns and John Manning. A special door prize went to Mrs. Fred Gillen.

To complete the pleasures of the evening, Mrs. Borchard and Mrs. Carey served refreshments at the small tables.

Kiwanians Dance and Play Cards at Ebull

One of the most joyous occasions of recent date was last night's dance and card party held at the Ebull clubhouse by members of the Kiwanis club. The event was the usual quarterly social affair.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dugan presided in the lounge where those who did not care to dance spent the evening playing bridge. Mrs. W. B. Marin and John Wehrly were the fortunate possessors of high scores while Mrs. A. N. Zerman and George S. Smith were second. Attractive gifts were awarded each one.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wallace acted as hosts in the peacock room where a merry crowd enjoyed the dance. Music was provided by Lew Traveller's orchestra from Los Angeles. As a special feature late in the evening, "Speed" Hanson, a member of the orchestra, sang several popular songs. Mr. Hanson is well known in Santa Ana for his ability as a performer.

At midnight, a delicious supper was served.

YOU Friends

Word has been received from Pablo Avila, former Santa Ana high school student, who is now at Stanford University, that he is enjoying his studies there.

Musical Program Given At Meeting of J. C. French Club

The first meeting of the advanced French club, "L'Hotel de Rambouillet," of the Santa Ana Junior college was held recently in the "X" hut. Many new members were greeted to the club by its advisor, Miss Lella Watson, who is the head of the French department of the college.

The meeting was opened by the singing of "La Marseillaise." Following this, Miss Elpha Thorndike took charge of the meeting for the election of new officers. Chosen for new officers were Miss Elpha Thorndike, president; Miss Elina-beth Masteer, vice president; Roy Grist, secretary; Stewart McPherson, treasurer; Miss Clara Kate Owens, program chairman; and Miss Josephine Ball, reporter.

A pleasing musical was presented, Miss Hazel Smith, one of last year's most active club members, offered a lovely vocal solo, "Les Yeux," with Miss Mary Brunner at the piano. Some cleverly planned pantomime acts were given by the Misses Mary Ford and Corrine Nelson. Closing the program, the club sang, "Il Pleut le Berger."

Two sandwiches were then served by members of the committee in charge of the meeting. Those who were on this committee included Miss Frances Bourne, chairman; Miss Ruth Tantlinger, and Miss Elpha Thorndike.

These meetings will be held bi-monthly and membership is restricted to advanced students of French.

WOMAN'S PAGE

By Louise Stephenson

WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMER

The daily paper that lies before me at this moment contains, on its front page, an account of a state convention of a men's luncheon club. But, accompanying the story, is a sizable picture of a group of women—wives of the club members, attending the convention with them.

There isn't anything especially noteworthy about that, of course; yet, when you stop to think about it, it is rather significant.

Not long ago the convention of a men's lodge or club was looked upon as a sort of escape. The members went "stag"; a wife who would have volunteered to go along would have been looked upon as a bit of an upstart. The men, quite frankly, wanted to get away for a while.

But nowadays—well, it's just sort of taken for granted, in most cases, that friend wife will go along. No entertainment committee handling such a function, for instance, would dare fail to provide for shopping tours for the women in the party; nor would it think of arranging a program that would not appeal to women as well as to men.

The fact of the matter is that the modern wife has learned how to be a pal to her husband. John Doe is actually discovering that he can have a better time if Mrs. Doe goes along than if she stays at home. And right there is something encouraging enough to offset all the tales about a rise in the divorce rates.

A family where husband and wife are pals isn't going to go on the rocks of marital discord.

Of the 13,000 persons who have been calling New York's new time bureau every day of the past month to get the correct time, the great majority make calls between 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening, telephone officials say.

This smacks suspiciously of friend wife casting a reflective eye at the clock and wondering if it isn't time to be putting the chops or stew on the stove. Which hardly sounds as if all the wives were trotting home from delicatessen stores about that time, as the vaudeville comedians would have us believe.

Oh, well, maybe it might mean most anything!

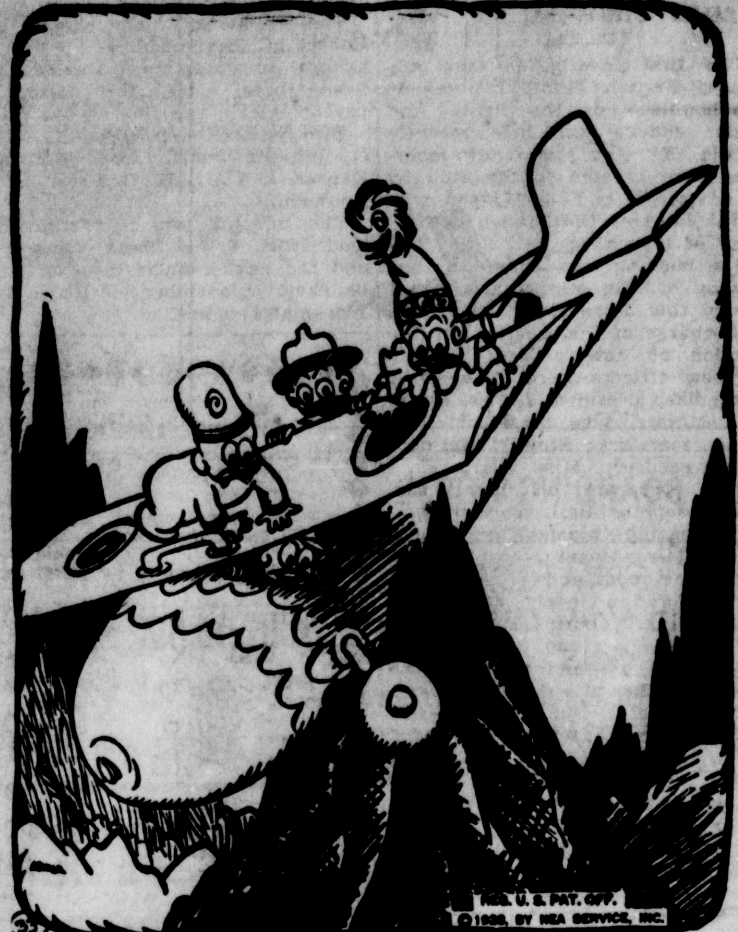

By the way, I hear that centerpiece of fruits and vegetables have become quite the vogue in our smartest homes. I wonder if the vogue doesn't spring from the fact that Mrs. Herbert Hoover's squash and plum and apple and berry and pumpkin and tasseled corn centerpieces have featured her tea and dinner tables ever since she began hosting it in Washington?

Miss Grace Lyon, of Long Beach, Long Island, has purchased three 10-passenger amphibian airplanes, with which she will start an air service between New York and Havana, via Miami.

We have much to say about unemployment problems for both men and women, but facts like this remind us that even while the

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAI COOMAN—PICTURES BY KIRCH

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Up in the air the Tines flew upon the plane. The sparrow knew just how to cut right through the wind. He'd done that trick for years. All birds, of course, soon learn with ease just how to hide upon the breeze. Their big wings keep them in the air, and it's their tail that steers.

The sparrow glanced down on the bunch and saw that they were eating lunch. "Hey, there!" he shouted. "Don't forget that I get hungry too. If you don't mind, I'll gladly take a bite or two of chocolate cake." "Why, sure," exclaimed we Copsy. "There is naught too good for you."

Then Copsy stood up on the plane. "Don't eat so much you'll get a pain," he shouted to the sparrow, as the bird ate from his hand. The bird then said, "Oh, I won't stuff. I know when I have had enough. Two bites will keep me going till we all decide to land."

Just at this moment came a bang, and soon two more shots loudly rang. "Oh, someone's shooting at me," cried the sparrow, in despair. "If I stay up here I'll be shot. 'Twould be my luck as like as not. Duck down, you Tines! Bullets now are flying through the air."

The bird flew on as best he could. "Oh, mercy! This is not so good," cried Copsy. "I just wish that we could somehow reach the ground. Ill bet our bird is scared to death. Why he can hardly catch his breath." The cracking of some more shots shortly made an awful sound.

Then, suddenly, the sparrow cried, "I guess I'll have to end this ride. I'm going to let go of the plane. You won't have far to drop." The poor bird did this very thing, and out for safety he took wing. The plane, with all the Tines, landed on a mountain top.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

We seem to be running to statistics in divorce. Every day we are confronted by a new set of figures and an old set of reasons for dissolving the marital tie.

Has it occurred to us seriously that the same things that are accountable for failure in marriage may be responsible for failure in children.

If a woman nags her husband, is it not possible that she will nag at her children, and if a husband is ugly and unreasonable with his wife, is it not likely that his children will come in for their share of the same kind of treatment?

Speaking of divorces, 70 per cent of the men applying for separation in one court blamed their unhappiness on the "dispositions" of their wives.

One man said that the minute he sat down to read, his wife thought of a dozen things for him to do, and she would make him stop his reading to do them, although he may have been idle for an hour before.

If that isn't a complex, I should like to know what it is. And it is very common in most of us. We can't bear to see someone else indulging himself if we ourselves are busy, even our children.

Take a boy who dawdles a bit on his way from school, or who bawls up the stairs, "I'm home, Mom," and shoots out the door before anyone can stop him and beats it for the practice field as fast as his two legs can carry him.

He's filled the bill—he has "reported" that he is safe after school. Now he's off to satisfy his own natural craving for exercise and society. All day long he has been diligent with the demands of home and state. Now he's going to have a blissful hour of his own in which to do as he pleases.

But instantly there crops up in his mother's mind that "duty" slant. She had things planned to fill up that precious hour of his, errands to run, leaves to rake. There may be a scolding or a whipping waiting him when he comes back and one more brick is added to the wall that is going to separate her from her boy someday.

The first thing we parents must learn is a neat little maxim that

AT THE THEATERS

YOST'S BROADWAY
Warner Brothers' supreme triumph, Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer," is playing a return engagement on the Yost Broadway screen by popular request, and drawing crowds that are equal in size and enthusiasm to those of its first showing here.

The story is that of a Jewish boy who ran away from an orthodox home to conquer Broadway. At the pinnacle of success he is confronted with the problem of returning to appear in the synagogue in place of his dying father or staying to win the lady and the praise of the world. The splendid cast is headed by May McAvoy, Warner Oland, Eugene Bessner and Otto Lederer. Added entertainment is offered by Ken Maynard's latest feature, "Code of the Scarlet," with its daredevil stunts, spectacular riding and colorful scenery.

The picture shows Maynard in a new role, for instead of the usual western type, he is seen as a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. The action, however, is said to surpass anything Ken has ever done before, for both locale and theme of the story lend themselves to strong dramatic situations.

AUNT EPIE ARRIVED TO DELIVER THE PRINCIPAL SPEECH AT THE HOOVER RALLY WEARING A SMITH PLACARD!

EXPRESS LOSS LEGION HEADS FELT AT DEATH IN PLACENTIA OF W. L. INNES DINNER GUESTS

The board of trustees, the board of deacons and the Women's society of the First Baptist church, at recent meetings, passed an expression of condolence at the death of William L. Innes, pioneer of Santa Ana, and long an active member of the church.

Signed by P. H. Norton and John J. Harrison, for the trustees; John P. Williams and A. C. Black, for the deacons, and Gertrude E. Minor and Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks, of the Women's society, the expression of sympathy reads as follows:

"In the passing of William L. Innes, the church loses one of its most valued members. Coming to our city in the prime of his manhood, he brought to the church the experience of a mature life and the devotion of a consecrated heart. Endowed with a keen mind and rare good judgment, his counsel was sought and freely given in the financial and business interests of the Kingdom work, while many bear testimony that though quiet and unassuming, he was alert to the demands about him and repeatedly his generous contributions were made where needed when there were none to observe or applaud.

"Mr. Innes' interest in young life was demonstrated in teaching his class of teen age boys who, though grown to young manhood, have today the tangible evidence of his love, in treasured gifts and the example and precept of his fine and upright character. His interest in Missions found expression in gifts for the work in far away fields, and Congo-land and China are better because he loved the Master's cause so much. His love of order and beauty is exemplified in the gift of the beautiful corner stone of our church building and the records of the church will long bear witness to his beautiful character.

Rupture Specialist Coming

Dr. T. V. Stokes of Los Angeles will be in Santa Ana at the Hotel Santa Ana on Saturday Oct. 20th from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dr. Stokes is representing the Morris Orthopedic Institute of Los Angeles, Philadelphia and London.

Dr. Stokes is going to demonstrate the new flexible Spermatic Guard which is the latest improvement in the treatment of hernia with the famous Morris Rupture Cure.

These demonstrations are entirely free, and those suffering from rupture are urged to call and see this specialist. Dr. Stokes says the new Spermatic Guard is guaranteed to hold any rupture, and will close the opening in the average case, in 10 days.

Free—England gave this Guard the only "out" 100 cents for a hernia. Morris Orthopedic Institute has permanent offices at 1223 Lower State St., Los Angeles, California.

DISCOVERS 'OLD STUFF' IN BARBER SHOP AND IT SURE SLICKED OFF HIS WHISKERS

"Feeling pretty low," remarked the bewildered gent as he coaxed into the third chair.

"So?" asked the barber. "I'll give you a little something to fix you up. Seventeen sixty-one," he drawled with a smirk. "And if you don't think it's keen...."

The customer relaxed in the chair. First the barber. Then hot towels. And then....

"Say, that's a slick knife," remarked the client, trying to sit up and take a look. The barber gently pushed him back. "But hurry up with that seventeen sixty-one."

"Old stuff," droned the barber and the razor continued to slide. After a moment the patient sat up and passed a hand over his face.

"Smooth?" asked the barber.

"Like velvet," remarked the man with a skin he loved to touch. "Now how about that old stuff?"

The barber smiled, glanced cautiously about and then opened a drawer behind his chair. The school girl complexion drew a little nearer.

"Seventeen sixty-one," said the barber as he handed the man a small wooden case. The case he stroked away and lit a cigar.

Again the man passed a hand over his cheek as he opened the case and saw what was inside.

"Old stuff," he marveled.

"Sure, it's pretty old," agreed G. I. Tella, 311 South Main street, who handles them in the third chair at Joe Steele's barber shop, 308 North Sycamore street.

"It gave you a nice school girl veneer, too, didn't it?"

The old barber wavered in the little case came from Norway with Ole E. Hagen, of Northfield, Minn. It was made in Sogn, Norway, in 1761. It now belongs to W. W. Westcott, 634 South Van Ness street, and he says Hagen told of seeing his grandfather use the ancient edge a long, long time ago.

Westcott brought it in to Tella to have it polished up a bit. Tella polished it and put an edge on it. It now has the school girl complexion, too.

"You can call that old stuff if you want to," said Tella.

CLEAR LOT FOR STRUCTURE AT MAIN. SECOND

With the announcement today by R. C. Mize, attorney for the Santa Ana Improvement company, that William Roehrbacher had been awarded the contract for erection of the company's building on the northwest corner of Main and Second streets, work was started at once by Roehrbacher to remove sheds on the property.

It is expected excavation work will start Monday or Tuesday for the full basement which is to be a part of the construction. While the contract price has not been revealed, it is understood that it was around $75,000.

The structure will have two stories and a basement. The second floor will be occupied by the Builders' Exchange and the north half of the lower floor will be used by Southern California Edison company.

The building will have a frontage of 100 feet on Main street and a depth of 115 feet along Second street.

Court Continues Grand Theft Case

The case of J. L. Colburn, Orange, was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning until 10 a. m., October 25, at the request of the defendant. Colburn is charged with grand theft in connection with the alleged stealing of an automobile, owned by O. A. Haley, here on October 11. The car was recovered in Orange.

SPRINGDALE

SPRINGDALE, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Charles Graham entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of her sister, Mrs. Arthur Grisel, who was celebrating her birthday anniversary.

Seventeen members of the family group were present, those present being the honoree and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grisel, of Greenville; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Grisel; Talbot; uncle, John Cline, of Glendale; parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Crane, brother, S. J. Crane, uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wentzel and cousins, Miss Velma Wentzel, Roy and Dwight Wentzel and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham and two sons, Alvin and Roger Dean.

Gordon Sork has been absent from school for a number of days on account of illness.

Mrs. B. F. Coker and son, George Coker, Los Angeles, were in the neighborhood one day seeing after their ranch property. They have recently returned from a vacation trip in the south, where they visited in Mrs. Coker's old home in Mississippi, and also in Georgia, the Carolinas and Washington, D. C.

This colored family lived for many years on their ranch here and since they moved to Los Angeles, George Coker has been attending U. S. C. L. A., where he has one more year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Graham spent a day at Puente with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lyons, who have just returned from a vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Young, Midway City, were Saturday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Graham.

S. J. Crane is driving a new coupe.

Mr. and Mrs. Binkerd and son, former Iowa friends of the Lee Wentzel and Charles Wentzel families, called Monday at the Wentzel home to bid them goodbye as they were on their way back to Iowa. The family has been residing at Whittier during their stay in California.

ORANGE

ORANGE, Oct. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bay returned the first of the week from a trip to San Francisco, where the former attended the grand lodge of Masons. Bay is the master of the local lodge. While they were gone they visited the big trees in Northern California and spent some time with friends in San Francisco and Oakland.

Mrs. Fay Reeves, 334 South Orange street, and Miss Mabel Reeves, 513 East Washington street, will leave Saturday for a trip north. On their way to Oregon they will stop at Exeter, Calif., to visit former residents of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conant and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bussck. In Portland they will be the guests of their cousin, Frank Siaz, and at Seattle they will meet other cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Greeley, of Great Falls, Mont. Miss Reeves is city treasurer of Orange.

Miss Juanita Rambaugh, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. L. Mashburn, 119 West Palmyra street, left Monday for her home at Yuma, Ariz.

Miss Minnie Schmidt, of Chicago, who has been the guest of Miss Minnie Grote and Miss Lena Grote for some time, will leave soon for her home in the east. Over the week end Miss Schmidt, in company with the C. O. Helms and her hostesses, visited San Diego and old Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Adams, 132 South Clark street, have as their guests, Mrs. Adams' brother Odin Minton and family. The Mintons are moving from San Bernardino to Carlsbad.

HOOVER SISTER IN SANTA ANA FOR HAIR WAFFLE

It strange that they didn't show up years ago when you were tiny children back in Iowa, left fatherless and motherless?" The remark was not a bitter one in return. "Well, we did have every kindness that could have been asked," Mrs. Leavitt replied quietly, and told simply how the orphan children were cared for by loyal relatives back in the little "Friends' community of West Branch, Iowa."

And I recalled that I had been told of the early death of Jesse Hoover and his wife, Hulda, was a small lad of only a few years. Mrs. Leavitt was Herbert Hoover's little sister May, in those far-off days, and she is still his little sister May, for she is a tiny, bird-like woman with the bluest of blue eyes in which one may trace a decided resemblance to her distinguished big brother. She is at present rejoicing because she weighs more than she ever did before in her life, having been up to tipping the scales at some place around 85 pounds, and having now achieved a coveted 110!

But don't think that because she is little and ultra-feminine, Mrs. Leavitt isn't well-versed politically. She has the entire campaign of her tongue's end, and in our talk touched lightly but definitely upon the situations arising in various parts of the country.

"I declare that I will not talk politics, and that I'll refrain from reading anything more about it," she said laughingly. "But I find myself 'reading' the papers eagerly, and reading every word I can find. However, my husband and I have definitely decided one thing. We are going to go down and vote very early indeed on election day, and then we are going to slip away and spend the day deep in woods that we know. At 10 o'clock that night, but I suppose when the time comes, we'll not want to move two feet away in the radio."

When asked if she had already planned the excitement of visiting her brother in the White House, Mrs. Leavitt smiled. "Isn't it a trifle early for that? No, I have made no plans. This promises to be one of the closest elections ever known, for there are so many elements entering into it. My brother may not reach the White House at all, so why should I plan to visit him there when the plan might never materialize?"

I admit the prospect looks very inviting. It would be a wonderful experience to be a family guest in that particular mansion, wouldn't it?"

I agreed that it would as a kaleidoscope vision of blue rooms, state dining rooms, red rooms, etc., swept through my mind, and I pictured actual family visiting in the midst of such over-powering surroundings.

Mrs. Ludlow had read with interest, a story The Register published some weeks ago of reminiscences of Herbert Hoover's boyhood days, by William Grivel of the Gem grocery on A street. She so asked for a copy of the story for Mrs. Leavitt, who had hoped to be completely "curled and beautified" in time to drop in for a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Grivel. However, the waving process was her first consideration, and with a little visit to the Ludlows to follow, she had no time for renewing old friendships yesterday, and plans to see Mr. and Mrs. Grivel on her next visit to Santa Ana.

As I said in the beginning, she was very sweet and gracious yesterday, drawing the line at one thing only—she flatly refused to pose for her picture while the waving process was under way. Not that I blamed her a bit, but when she stepped from the ministrations of Mrs. Norfield, and I saw her, dainty and trim with her softly curled hair, I regretted that I had not exacted a promise to pose as soon as the permanent was completed.

Oh yes, I mustn't forget her only expressed disappointment in Santa Ana, where she is a frequent visitor. That was that we had no Woman's Hoover club.

SHERIFF KIDNAPED BUT ONLY IN FUN

Sheriff Sam Jernigan was kidnapped this morning and liked it.

Leisurely going about his business in his office this morning, the sheriff suddenly was set upon by a number of men, all wearing little red hats. He was placed in an automobile and, with several official officers as an escort, whisked out of the city. Last night, when the sheriff was reported to be "kidnaped" were headed for San Diego.

The wearers of the little red hats were members of the Imperial council of the Shrine of North America. They were led by Frank Jones, of Houston, Tex., imperial potentate. Leo Youngworth, prominent Los Angeles attorney, who will be imperial potentate next year, and Kenneth Gillette, Santa Fe railroad official, who is potentate of Al Malakiah temple, Los Angeles, also are with the group, which is making official visits to Shrines throughout Southern California.

AVOCADO GROVES TO BE INSPECTED

Dr. H. S. Fawcett and Dr. W. T. Horne, of the University of California, experiment station in Riverside, will be in Orange county tomorrow for an inspection of avocado groves in this section. Harold Wahlberg, farm advisor, announced today.

The purpose of their investigation is to check up on the possible presence of disease among the avocado trees. According to Wahlberg there is nothing of a serious nature to worry the growers. The only known affliction is a slight tendency toward rotting of certain fruit.

Orchards in Tustin, Irvine, Yorba Linda and La Habra will be visited.

LEGION COUNCIL OF COUNTY WILL MEET IN ANAHEIM

The county council of the American Legion will hold its annual election of officers tomorrow night at the meeting to open at 7:30. It was announced today. Dick Haster, Garden Grove, present commander of the council, today asked that all old and new delegates to the council attend the meeting.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Oct. 18.—A. E. Neal of Santa Ana, was a visitor here Tuesday.

The Rev. Burton Y. Neal attended the 42nd annual meeting of the Los Angeles Association of Congregational ministers Tuesday at Olivet Congregational church on West Washington street, Los Angeles.

Arni Nelson was the speaker at the dinner and meeting of the local Kiwanis Tuesday night in the Community hall, his subject being his trip across the continent.

The Buena Park theater was packed to the doors Tuesday night at the Kiwanis' benefit show. A good sum was secured for the firemen's fund.

L. L. Stowe went to Highland Wednesday to attend the funeral of Christian Robson.

BURON FITTS GOES TO S. F. HOSPITAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Burton Fitts, lieutenant governor of California, and district attorney-elect of Los Angeles county, was under treatment in St. Luke's hospital.

Recurrence of trouble with an old wound in the leg received in the World War forced him to abandon a speaking tour in northern California and go to the hospital.

Says Grape Men Lost $8,000,000 By Speculation

FRESNO, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Speculation by representatives of eastern fruit dealers and local shippers cost the fresh grape industry $8,000,000 this season, according to Donald D. Conn, managing director of the California Vineyardists' association, who was on record today as favoring legislation that would cause the same license regulations to be applied to the bottled cash buyers as to the government commission house operations. This would put a stop to the practice said to be followed by eastern receivers of sending representatives to the coast who speculate with the growers' grapes, paying nothing until the fruit has been sold, although posing as "cash" buyers.

EVENING SALUTATION

We deem those happy who, from the experience of life, have learned to bear its ills, without being overcome by them.

—Juvenal.

PRESERVE OUR STATE BEAUTIES

We have already called attention to the fourth proposition appearing on the November ballot. This is the Constitutional amendment to ratify the legislature act authorizing the issuance of $6,000,000 in bonds for the acquiring of lands in California for state park purposes. These bonds will be used only upon the condition that the public subscribe an additional $6,000,000 for the same purpose.

Here is an opportunity to preserve the forests and beaches for all the people, and make one dollar of taxation do the work of two. These bonds should carry by a great majority for by that means the people will preserve the scenic and recreational areas of California for themselves and their posterity.

In a few years the beaches in close proximity to centers of population will be fenced away from public access and will be held by individuals or by exclusive clubs. Recreation at the seashore is indulged in by hundreds of thousands of residents and visitors annually and has been held heretofore as a common right. But the beaches down to the highwater line is undoubtedly private property and as such may be held for the exclusive use of the owners. This property is rapidly growing in value and the sooner it is purchased for the common use the less the cost will be. Long stretches of the ocean front should have been taken for the common good long ago when the price was much lower. Our neglect has compelled us to purchase at higher values, the same property. We cannot undo the neglect of the past but our children will have much just cause for complaint if we continue to neglect this most obvious duty to purchase now before the price is practically prohibitive.

The same argument may be made for the other natural scenic and recreational areas of the state. Particularly the remaining giant redwood forests which can never be replaced, if and when private profit dictates their destruction. Did you ever see these giant trees? They are the most majestic of living things. They inspire a reverence for the creator matched only by the contemplation of the extent of the universe and the existence of reasoning men. All these except those preserved by the United States government will shortly be gone unless we by our own acts preserve them as a rich heritage not alone for our own posterity but for all the people of the world to contemplate and enjoy. We will be recreant to our trust if we neglect further to preserve for all those beauties and opportunities which will continue to draw millions of people to California.

These bonds should be carried by a large majority. Every lover of California will vote "yes" on the fourth proposition.

Just think what a wonderful cheer leader Mabel Walker Willebrandt would have made! A scientist comes forward to assert that man has a soul. Just in the nick of time!

OUR CHINESE NEIGHBORS

The average monthly income of a working man's family in Peking, China, in 1926-1927 was $7.57, United States currency, according to a study by L. K. Tao, formerly professor of sociology in the National University of Peking. A copy of the study was recently received by the United States Bureau of Labor statistics, Department of Labor.

The survey shows that the average size of the families was 4.58 persons. One-third of the income, approximately, came from the earnings of the wife, children or members of the family, other than the father. It is estimated that 270,000 people in the city, or about one-fifth, of the population are living on that level.

The report is detailed and comprehensive, including details of expenditures as well as resources and income. 71.2 per cent of the income for six months goes for food, of that amount 80 per cent is for cereal soup, 9.1 per cent for vegetables and 6.7 per cent for condiments. Expenses for meat, fish and other animal foods are insignificantly low; 3.2 per cent.

It should be noted that the total income for these families for a month is not as much as the average working man's family in the United States spends in food alone in one week. Yet the cost of food is not so much greater here than there.

Quantity and quality of food consumed is not necessarily an evidence of a high standard of living. We would not suggest that the food outlay of the average family in this country should be reduced to that of the Chinese, because undoubtedly the Chinese families are undernourished, yet there is a wide margin of difference between the money most of us spend for food and food waste and what these Chinese families subsist on. Our standards of living might be raised if we were to take a few lessons from the Chinese housewives in Peking in food economy and put the money saved into good books and magazines, and concerts, and charity.

A promoter has bought John D. Rockefeller's birthplace and will move it to Coney Island for exhibition as an object lesson. Folk seeking object lessons probably can find one whenever they pass a gasoline station, too.

LUCK IS A POOR RESOURCE

The English aviator, Commander H. C. MacDonald, when this will be read, is either safely at a landing port or in the sea somewhere between Newfoundland and England. He has had but 16 hours of instruction with a total of 80 hours in the air to his credit.

We are just going to refuse to get excited over manner with an 85-horsepower plane with only 25 feet wing span, and with fuel sufficient for 2300 miles. If he arrives he is lucky, and if he doesn't arrive he is unlucky. The truth is that luck and not intelligent preparation is his dependence.

Our sympathy has been enlisted and interest challenged on so many occasions by the brave and daring aviators, many of whom have lost their lives after the greatest safety assurance they could derive, that we are almost impatient with one who attempts this.

NEW YORK POLITICIAN FOUND GUILTY

Maurice E. Connolly, a former borough president of Queens, New York City, must go to jail for defrauding the city of New York through sewer contracts. He also pays a small fine.

For more than a decade this man has been a power and influence in New York City and he has made money through crooked deals. Now a jury has found him guilty. It is difficult to get a conviction in greater New York for any offense of stealing from the taxpayers' pockets through legal contracts. As the whole machinery of government is set up and being run by the very ones who are taking advantage of it to steal, and where they are joined in an organization for the purpose of plunder. They stand by one another when they are caught and finally, if public exposure forces conviction, the penalty is entirely inadequate.

Boss Tweed, who as one of the "40 thieves," according to his own testimony, stole from the city of New York upwards towards $2,000,000, received a sentence for a very short period after he had fled the country in disguise and was captured abroad and brought back.

The difficulty is that people who are living in a community where thieving and general skulduggery are practiced with impunity, finally have the keen edge of their judgment and conscience dulled, even though they themselves have not been parties to any wrong doing. This affects judges and juries. Fundamentally the reason why men and women must protest constantly when public wrongs are noticed is not necessarily to save the city or the state, but they must do it to save themselves from reaching a condition of tolerating it.

There is probably no place in the world where there is such a low standard of public duty permitted to govern officials as in the city of New York, not even in Chicago. It is due to the strangle hold of a grafting organization upon the throats of the electorate for more than 100 years.

A dispatch says that shoe buckles now can be made partly of cow's milk. "Feed Your Feet in Shoes Buckled by the Product of Contented Cows."

TWO YEARS FOR TAKING A LIFE

How strict should sentences for gross violations of the traffic law be? A Kansas City motorist got drunk and indulged in a mad joyride across town. In this ride he hit two automobiles in succession, ran over and killed a 76-year-old pedestrian, drove away without stopping and crashed into still another car.

He was caught, brought to trial on a charge of manslaughter. He pleaded guilty; the judge sentenced him to two years in prison.

The man's attorney contended that was a severe sentence. The prosecutor said he thought it was about right. A Kansas City newspaper cries that it was too light.

How about it? Is two years too much or too little for a drunkard who pilots a car he cannot control about the crowded streets of a big city, causing one death, wrecking three cars and failing to take more lives only by the whim of chance?

Duty Free, Too

San Diego Union

Free speech? There is such a thing; but, no doubt by way of necessary contrast, there is such a thing as speech that is bought and paid for. An example is the conversation of the passengers landed so recently from Germany aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin. Their speech is under contract, so it seems, for the next week or so. Part of the consideration paid in for their passage was a general promise not to talk about the experiences aboard the Zeppelin, except to accredited representatives of the newspaper association which purchased their gossip from the Zeppelin corporation.

This is a very odd and interesting transaction—a sort of blackmail in reverse english. Instead of purchasing the silence of the passengers, the news association has bought whatever they have to say, merely using what it seems usable and withholding the residue from public dissemination. As a result, we shall read in the newspapers all the news of the voyage, but it will be credited discreetly to anonymous sources. Our news of the great voyage will be bootlegged to us.

This episode is just another reminder of the extent to which the commerce in intangibles is carried, in this age of propaganda. In New York City, there are agencies in which opinions are for sale. It is possible there to purchase the indorsement of certain selected notables, to be applied, as the purchaser chooses, to mattresses, automobiles, monkey-wrenches, tooth pastes or locomotives. The nation has lately learned that there are universities in which learned professors can be hired to lend the weight of abstruse reasoning to the cause which the purchaser espouses. And now this giant dirigible brings, with its mail and its passengers, a cargo of conversation as a commodity.

A Big Problem

Riverside Daily Press

A bulletin from the National Safety council makes the startling prediction that automobiles in the United States will kill 8000 persons during the last three months of the year.

It adds that if the rate to date continues, the year's auto death toll will be well above 24,000. It is amazing when you stop to think about it, that these figures do not stir us into a demand for instant action. If an epidemic were to break out suddenly and take a toll like that, we should get busy at once. Every resource that we possess would be mobilized to save lives. But we accept the auto death rate almost without giving it a second thought.

Very soon we must recognize this matter of traffic deaths as one of the major problems of our national life.

We Have a Boundary Dispute But No War

San Francisco Chronicle

If the boundary dispute that has just arisen between Louisiana and Mississippi were to occur between a couple of the pocket handkerchief sized countries where Europe's wars are bred we should see half the chancelleries shivering with apprehension. It seems that the Mississippi river has eaten the shore of Mississippi to a distance of about five miles at one point and has deposited the silt across the river on the Louisiana side. Each state claims the new land. Instead of going to war about it the two states have gone to the supreme court. There is no waving of flags, rattling of drums or shots across the border. Why should they have have such performances in other parts of the world?

OCTOBER VOYAGERS

I've never seen the tiny folk
Who live amid the fern
Until on maple, birch and oak
The leaves begin to turn.
But I've been told that through the night
These dwellers in the dews
Watch sharply till the leaves alight
And use them for canoes.

I've never caught them at their work
Although I've often stoed
In places where they love to lurk
Amid the moulding wood.
But when the town was still in bed
To have its last sweet dream
I've seen their boats of pink and red
Go floating down the stream.

Sometimes they travel out of sight
As on the bank I stand,
Again they veer to left or right
To find their way to land
And come to rest where old man mink
Has made his damp abode,
But never have I seen one sink
Or spill its precious load.

And if sometime you'll rise at dawn
And stand a while and look
Across the frost encrusted lawn
That stretches toward the brook,
Though not a single tiny tar
May ever meet your eye,
If you look yonder past the bar
You'll see the boats go by.

By Dr. Frank Crane

WONT POWER

There is a good deal of talk about Will Power, but there is a stronger power than that.

It is Wont Power.

There is a good deal more power in holding back than in going forward. A mule can only pull a certain load, but if the mule balks it takes a great deal of power to move him. That is, he has more power in standing still and refusing to go than he has in going forward.

A man who ought to know about autos said one time that an automobile engine has more power in going backwards than forwards.

People are always complaining about their lack of Will Power. There are many books and teachers for the training of the Will. Alcohol and other drugs are supposed to impair the Will Power. A man is presumed to proceed along the downward path because he has no Will Power. That is the reason he cannot resist temptation.

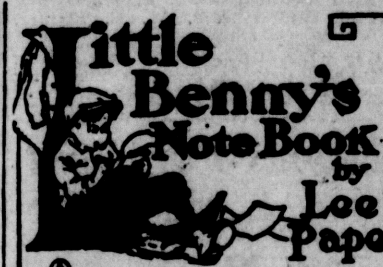

But it does not take Will Power to resist bad habits, or otherwise keep from doing wrong. It takes something else that almost everybody has, even the weaklings. It takes Wont Power.

Anybody can be stubborn and mule-like refuse to move. Some people cannot come to a decision, they are watery and inefficient when it comes to doing a certain thing. But even the most nifty-pammy and vacillating can refuse to do a thing. It doesn't take Will Power. It doesn't take reason. All it takes is pure stubbornness. And even the weakest can be stubborn.

An old sot once suddenly quit drinking and stayed quit. I asked him how he came to do it. He said: "Well, I just happened to think that I didn't have to make any good resolutions or pray for strength or anything like that. I just didn't have to do it. That's all. Nobody, not even Jesus, could make me drink. I just didn't have to put the glass to my mouth. I made up my mind that the best way was to go to it."

This is a trick worth knowing. We can sometimes do things, or rather refuse to do them, by slipping our foot in the mud and refusing to budge, better than by prayer and wrestling. The first thing anybody wants to do is to have been doing wrong is to quit. Have all the resolutions and want to after that, but all reform begins with what Gladiolus said: "The Overcoming No."

Ma and my sister Gladdis was talking about Gladdis' clothes and weather she has snuff to start with after she gets married, and me and pop and Mr. Parkins was listening, ma saying, Well, you'll have your new tweed traveling suit, that's one important item all settled, and you'll have that blue street costume for a change.

Yes, I'm not worrying about street clothes, have I snuff evening dresses, that's the big question, Gladdis sed. And little morning and afternoon gowns, I practically just have my 2 printed dresses and the white pleated one, will they be snuff she sed.

I think so, and don't forget your having that little French model made over, ma sed. So it seems your evening clothes are the only problem, and I shouldn't be surprised if you'd do very well with the crape de sheen your having made and your 4 practically new ones, my goodness that makes five, she sed, and Gladdis sed, That's so, and if the spots come out of my green velvet that's another one, O I guess I'll struggle along all rite for a while.

How about you, Harvey? pop sed. Have you sufficient changes of clothes to plunge into the sea of matrimony with? he sed, and Mr. Parkins sed, Well I'm afraid the most I can think of at the present moment is 2 fairly good suits and an extra pair of shoes and I must say after listening to the ladies the thawt makes me feel rather underdressed.

I should think so, pop sed. Come on around to the bowling alley and I'll roll you for the cigars, it mite take your mind off your sartorial poverty, he sed.

Gladdy, Mr. Parkins sed. And him and pop went out and ma and Gladdis talked about Gladdis' clothes all over agan.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

Any life that is to be more than an adventure in futile anarchy must be the fruit of a very real discipline.

Any man who is to accomplish anything genuine and satisfying must know both how to subject himself to a genuine discipline and how to administer a genuine discipline.

Whether we are rearing a family, mastering a subject, administering a staff of men, or running a nation, we cannot dodge the problem of discipline.

Bertrand Russell tells this interesting story of Anton Chekov, the distinguished Russian writer: Chekov's uncle undertook to teach a kitten to catch mice.

He turned a mouse loose in the room where the kitten was, expecting the kitten's hunting instinct to lead it promptly to pounce upon the mouse, but to his surprise the kitten paid no attention to the mouse.

So he beat the kitten. The next day, and the next, and the next, this little kitten and mouse drama was repeated; the kitten displayed no interest in the mouse and was promptly and thoroughly beaten, but all attempts to turn this timid kitten into an efficient mouse-catcher failed.

Finally Chekov's uncle was convinced that the kitten was stupid, and dismissed it as unteachable. Although the kitten seemed otherwise normal, it could never thereafter see a mouse without trembling in terror and running away.

"Like the kitten," said Chekov, "I had the honor of being taught Latin by my uncle."

This simple story effectively dramatizes the difference between the old ideas of discipline and the new ideas of discipline.

The old discipline rested upon the cultivation of a spirit of servility and the enforcement of obedience. The new discipline rests upon the cultivation of a spirit of curiosity and the stimulation of interest.

In any enterprise in which we have to deal with human beings, this is a cardinal principle that we can ignore only at the price of failure.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CONDITION IT

When a child balks at doing something that he needs to do, like going upstairs alone, sleeping in a room by himself, crossing the hall in the dark, going on an errand, you must condition the situation so that he will want to do what is necessary. That means something like this.

The child, perhaps a timid little girl, or a seemingly sturdy little boy, suddenly shows fear of this kind. Won't go to the next room without someone with him, or a light, maybe refusing to go at all. You go with the child and you so arrange things that something pleasant happens to the child on the way.

He goes to bed weeping because you sent him there and suddenly the light flashes up and there you are with a chocolate mouse which you pull out from under his pillow. He cries a little and gets into bed and you may have to stay with him that night, a little while, but not as long as usual each night, when he goes to his room, there is the chocolate mouse, or its equivalent, under his pillow.

He goes on an errand, weeping every step of the way, and when he gets there, he is met with royal welcome and a brand new ball. You arrange that each time he goes on the errand this pleasant welcome and some happy thought is there to greet him. Little by little, because each experience ends happily, he is conditioned for the experience. It will become a habit and the chocolate mouse can grow up into a big one and go away.

You cannot force a child into a new and useful habit if he has been frightened into a bad one, or one that is unfortunate. You can so condition him that the new idea of the situation will displace the old one. It is another way of describing and illuminating an old way of helping a child to form a useful and necessary habit.

Remember that you can condition a child so that he will form useless and unnecessary habits as easily, easier, than you can condition him for a good one. The child who is frightened the first day of school is conditioned against the school. If, on going on an errand the child has an unfortunate experience, he is conditioned against going on that errand, and possibly, any other errand. The first time, the first experience is highly important. We have to try to see that a first time is always a pleasant time, as far as humanly possible.

Once a child has been conditioned to a situation it is not easy to recondition him. Talking won't help much. One must so set the stage that the experience results in pleasure. Keep repeating the experience and the pleasure and by and by the child is reconditioned.

When you are struggling to discipline a child think of this. It may be necessary to recondition the child. Discipline is not always in force of arms. Sometimes it lies in a chocolate mouse. (Copyright, 1934, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

THE PERFECT TEST

The professor, a noted botanist, had given instructions that a dish of mushrooms he had gathered himself were to be cooked and given to his wife at supper time.

At breakfast on the following morning the professor greeted his wife anxiously.

"Sleep well, my dear?"
"Splendidly."
"You didn't feel ill at all during the night? No pains or anything like that?"

The professor gave a shrill cheer.
"Hurrah!" he cried. "I've discovered yet another species of mushroom that isn't poisonous."—Answer.

EYES ON RENO?

HUSBAND: Whatever became of the little underwear and nightgown I gave you for your birthday?
WIFE: Oh, I put them in my knee chest.—Tit-Bits.

GOOD IDEA

"Why is it that you have two candles and two wicks?"
"That's what you mean, think of 1934 years for me."—Tit-Bits.
